MAYOR MAKES REPLY TO EX-MAYOR FITZGERALD

MILLIONS SAVED TO CITY'S TAXPAYERS AND CONFIDENCE RESTORED, SAYS CURLEY

The Fitzgerald-Curley war waxed hotter today when Mayor Curley fired a broadside retort to Former Mayor Fitzgerald's charges against the Curley administration.

The Mayor's broadside consisted of a list of his achievements for the city during the past year, with a statement that he wouldn't "dignify him by even so much as mentioning his name." The "him" and "his" refer to the Former Mayor, whose name the Mayor persistently refused to mention.

Mr. Fitzgerald's attack came in the Council chamber in City Hall before the City Council. It was the first time the former Mayor had abandoned his defensive of reviewing his own administration, and had taken the offensive, bitterly assailing his successor in office.

The former Mayor placed the blame for Boston's number of unemployed on Mayor Curley. He accused the Mayor of hypocrisy, and arraigned the Council for failing to prod the Mayor into action.

Mayor Curley wrote out the following statement today as a reply to Fitzgerald's attack:

"If mere words would feed the poor of Boston, none would be hungry. Action rather than conversation, thought rather than political favors; genuine effort rather than froth, made possible this record of accomplishments during 1914."

THE MAYOR'S STATEMENT.

The creation of confidence and the development of a genuine spirit o co-operatiflon between those men charged with the administration of public affairs and

FRENCH WITHIN 30 MILES OF THE RHINE AS RESULT OF GREAT STEINBACH VICTORY

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Details received here today of the six-day battle between French and Germans for the possession of Steinbach in upper Alsace show that it ranks with the battle of the Yser in ferocity.

As a result of the French victory, the allies are now within thirty miles of the Rhine. Following up the capture of Steinbach, they have fortified the ground taken from Thann to Cernay, have taken the villages of Crevis d'Argent, and advanced a kilometer beyond Old Thann.

On December 31 General Pau commanding the French, sent a summons to the German general at Steinbach to surrender, carrying in his demand that heavy loss of life could thus be avoided as the German forces were surrounded.

The German commander sent back a refusal, declaring that if he had to retreat he could kill the entire population of Jersey (Rhenish), as that road was still open.

The Kaiser's troops will fight to the last man, but they will never surrender, replied the German commander.

The French assault began at once, the men advancing to the attack through a forest of fir trees.

CHASSEURS IN VANGUARD.

The German artillery and machine guns opened upon the advancing French forces, but the latter were protected by the trees and the cannonade proved ineffective.

The Alpine chasseurs were in the vanguard of the French army, and it was here the brunt of the fighting in the conflict for the western entrance to the village.

After a sanguinary encounter the Alpine chasseurs gained possession of a farm only 300 yards from the entrance of the village, throwing up trenches and taking advantage of the buildings for shelter.

French correspondents charge the Germans with a breach of the laws of humanity in the fighting for the possession of this farm. They declare that the Teutons placed women and children in front of their ranks so that the French could not fire upon them. Being unable to use their rifles and machine guns, the chasseurs were compelled to carry the farm at the point of the bayonet.

The Germans had mounted quick-firing guns upon the roof of the farm buildings and these inflicted heavy losses upon the French before the defenders were killed, captured or driven off. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting raged about the buildings. The French carried the position and farmhouses into improvised blockhouses when they were taken, and these afforded excellent protection for the sharpshooters.

SET FIRE TO AMMUNITION.

These ridges inflicted severe losses upon the Germans. One crack marksman among the chasseurs boasted after the battle that he had slain all the Germans manning a battery of light artillery at 200 yards.

The Germans attempted to destroy the farm buildings with grenades and one of them was set on fire, but the wind blew the flames toward the German trenches and the burning brand was carried into the German lines, setting fire to some of their ammunition. The exploded, killing a number of German soldiers and wrecking the rest of the battery.

While the French were thus occupying the attention of the Germans at the western entrance of the village some of the chasseurs descended the hill along the Steinbach River, a small stream flowing south of the village, and drove the Germans out into the open. Attacked simultaneously on the north, west and south, the Germans had to give way and French victory was secured.

NEW ARREST IN WAKEFIELD CRIME

Bagio Falzone was arrested in Fitchburg today by State police and Inspector Flaherty of the local force on suspicion of being a principal or accessory in the murder of Maurice A. Albertson, the Lawrence jewelry salesman, whose mutilated body was found buried in the cellar of a shack in Wakefield several weeks ago. The victim had been robbed of $400 in cash and jewelry valued at $2,000. He was stabbed eleven times and was still alive, it is believed, when buried.

It is reported that a watch and some trinkets, part of the jewelry taken from Albertson, were found in the possession of Falzone. The police have been searching for him for days and it is said a letter he wrote to a friend in Wakefield led to his capture.

Ignazio Morello of No. 35 Columbia road, Wakefield, was the first suspect in the case to be jailed on a murder charge. The police believe there were several concerned in the murder.

RECOMMEND FOUR PLANS FOR CITY CHARTERS

The initiative and referendum for cities and preferential voting are the striking recommendations made to the Legislature today by the special recess committee on city charters. There are nine other recommendations. Among the more prominent are these:

Abolition of primary elections in cities.

Four plans of city charters, any one of which the city may experiment with for four years.

Publicity in making of contracts and purchase of supplies.

Prohibition of city officials from participating in contracts with cities.

Compulsory taking of land by eminent domain if the purchase price is 25 per cent. in excess of the assessed valuation.

"The committee is very strongly in favor of prohibiting officials whose holdings in a contracting concern are in excess of five per cent. from doing any official act on behalf of the city in reference thereto," says the report.

Four plans of city charters are recommended to the cities. They are: First, Mayor and council of nine members; second, Mayor and council of fifteen ward and "at large" councilmen; third, commission form of government; fourth, city manager plan.

TURKS WOULD LAY CAPITAL IN RUINS

ROME, Dec. 14, (by mail to New York, Jan. 5.)—If Turkey loses in this war and it is seen that the Russians cannot be kept out of Constantinople, the city will be laid in ruins by the Turks themselves. It will be blasted and swept with fire and the desolation will be such as human eye have never witnessed.

This prophecy was made here today by Ismail Kiemal, former Turkish governor of Roumania, before Roumania achieved her independence. Discussing the probable fate of the Ottoman capital, he said:

"The Russians will pay any price in blood for the queen of the Bosphorus. They will not hesitate before any sacrifice. But even admitting that they will succeed, when the last of the Turkish guns have been silenced and the last of the prophet's followers lies in his grave, the Russians will enter a city of smoking ruins. From Pera to Stamboul, from Galata to Scutari the greatest conflagration the world has ever seen will flare up greeting the conqueror, destroying every atom of every building. The flames of St. Sophia and Yildiz Kiosk will light the last hour of the Ottoman empire and the blasting explosion will be its requiem."

Ismail Kiemal declares that Turkey is engaged in a fight for existence and will stop at nothing. He believes that England's weak spot is Egypt and predicts that the Turks will be able to take the Suez Canal.

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—German aviators have conducted a successful raid upon the British ammunition storehouses at Rosendael and Couderkerque, near Dunkirk. One hundred British soldiers were killed or wounded by bombs dropped from the aeroplanes. The ammunition stores were set on fire.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—A Petrograd dispatch published in L'Information reports that the Russians have occupied eight Hungarian townships and that several divisions of the Austrian army are surrounded in the Carpathians.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—French infantry attacks have been resumed in Belgium and have resulted successfully in the sand dunes before Nieuport. In the vicinity of St. Georges the French have gained at various points from 200 to 500 yards, capturing part of the German trenches.

CALAIS, France, Jan. 5.—British warships have renewed their bombardment of the Germans on the Flanders coast, according to officers who arrived here today. The Germans have assembled a submarine flotilla at Zeebrugge and Ostende, and the British squadron is attempting to destroy these vessels.

LISBON, Jan. 5.—Portugal has entered the war on the side of the allies. Official announcement was made today that Portuguese troops had been engaged with German soldiers in Angola, western Africa. The Premier stated that 4,700 more soldiers had been concentrated in Angola for the campaign against the Germans.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 5.—Continuing its daring raids in the Atlantic, the German converted cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm has sunk four more vessels owned by French and British concerns, the Bellevue, the Montagnet, the Bretagne and the Union.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Five million Russian soldiers have marched through Warsaw to the west and south, says a dispatch from Copenhagen, which says the information comes from the Polish capital. Warsaw has been surrounded by an immense field of fortifications.

NEW ATTACK ON U. S. PROTEST

LONDON, Jan. 5.—A conference reported to be the final one was held by members of the government today at the Foreign Office to consider the British reply to President Wilson's note protesting against the attitude of the English navy toward American mercantile shipping.

Those taking part were Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister; First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, and the Solicitor General of England. The discussion lasted upwards of an hour.

Another attack was made upon the United States by the Globe in further editorial comment upon the situation involved in the American protest. It says:

"We are fighting for many things including the sanctity of one of those scraps of paper, the value of which the United States officially, so far, has shown no appreciation.

"We do not ask America's aid in this war, but if we do not expect her to take part in weakening the military arm of Germany by strengthening the forces arrayed against Germany, we do demand that we shall be required to take no course that shall weaken our own naval power.

"We do not appeal to America on moral grounds to cease from making money out of the necessities of our predicament. We leave her merchant vessels with their thirty days start to run the gauntlet and trade where and with whom they will, but we must see to it that our navy is stiffened to the task of preventing these cargoes from reaching the enemy or whom ammunition means further ability to murder and power of oppression."

Note—The thirty days referred to concerns Secretary McAdoo's idea of not publishing a ship's manifest until thirty days after she has sailed.)

The Evening Standard says: "While this country has no desire to interfere with the rights of neutrals, it is clear that these, in their turn must recognize that war is war and cannot be waged quite on the lines of a friendly tournament."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A circular addressed to exporters of the United States urging them to have their shipping manifests complete and accurate in order to avoid delay incident to search at sea, today was issued by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Peters.

DANBURY UNION HATTERS LOSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Supreme Court of the United States today affirmed a judgment of $252,130.82 obtained by D. E. Loew & Co. of Danbury, Ct., against 186 members of the Hatters' Union for damages under the Sherman anti-trust law, alleged to have been caused by the hatters' boycott against Loew and Company's hats. The defendants reside in Danbury, Norfolk and Bethel, Ct.

Justice Holmes in delivering the opinion of the court said it was impossible to see how the members of the union could avoid responsibility for the boycott and they must pay the penalty. The record of the whole case showed this, Justice Holmes said. He added that he could find no errors in the proceedings of the trial court.

Caruso Must Sing at Monte Carlo

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Enrico Caruso, famous tenor, will leave the Metropolitan Opera Company the middle of next month to fill an engagement at the Monte Carlo Opera House. He will not return here this season. A contract to appear in Monte Carlo in 1912 was made by Caruso about six years ago. Giulio Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan induced the Monte Carlo management to defer the engagement from year to year but was unable to obtain a further postponement.

Mrs. Folsom's Suit for Divorce Filed

PORTSMOUTH, Jan. 5.—Absolute divorce and the custody of their two children is asked for in the application filed today in Rockingham Superior Court at Exeter of Jane L. D. Folsom, wife of Harold M. Folsom, the deposed Episcopal clergyman.

Commercial Block in Palmer Burned

PALMER, Jan. 5.—Fire today destroyed the Commercial block, a three-story wooden building on Main street, owned by A. W. Holbrook. The loss is estimated at $40,000. The E. Brown Hardware Company sustained the heaviest loss among the tenants.

Wilson Hints at an Extra Session

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—That an extra session of Congress is a possibility, should the shipping bill fail of passage by March 4, was indicated today by President Wilson. He made it clear that failure to enact the rural credits bill would not cause him to call a special session, but he declined to give the same assurance concerning the ship purchase bill. The President asserted that the nation was in pressing need of shipping facilities.

Orpheus in Port, Escaped the Emden

The British steamship Orpheus, which reached Boston today from the Far East, narrowly escaped capture by the Emden, according to Captain John Sinclair. The liner was on her way to Colombo, Ceylon, in October, when the captain learned that twenty miles ahead of him when he heard the guns, the German cruiser was engaged in sinking five captured vessels.

The Orpheus brought a $1,500,000 cargo of East Indian products.

Men's Club to Hear Probation Officer

H. H. Parsons, one of Boston's probation officers, will speak tomorrow evening on "The Down and Outs" before the Men's Club of Maverick Church, East Boston. After the address the men will play basketball. Mrs. E. H. Verry of Ohio and Miss Rose Livingston, New York's "Angel of Chinatown," will speak before the Women's Benevolent Association of the church Thursday, Jan. 14, at 2 p. m.

Stocks Strong in London Market

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Excellent gains were recorded in many of the international shares at the opening of the London Stock Exchange today for the second day's trading since the resumption after the war suspension. The tone was steady.

Canadian Pacific began at 139¾ against 158¾ at the closing yesterday. Atchison opened at 96 for a net gain of ¼ over yesterday's final, and Union Pacific began at 120, Penn's gain over yesterday's last price was 1¾.

Other opening prices were: Central Americines 83½, Brazilian Tractions 67½, and Japanese 4½s 87. Trading was not large.

A. C. Burrage Jr. to Wed Philadelphian

Announcement was made today of the engagement of Albert C. Burrage, Jr., Harvard, 1908, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage of No. 214 Commonwealth avenue and Cohasset, to Miss Anne Belle Shirk, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marshall Shirk of Philadelphia.

Wilson Denies Report of Emissary to Pope

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Wilson today denied reports that he had sent an emissary to discuss peace efforts with Pope Benedict.

Gale Shifter Cargo, Steamer Puts Back

The British steamship Querdam, which left New York Wednesday with a full cargo of sulphuric acid for London, put into Boston today to restow her cargo which had shifted by heavy seas. The acid which is in steel drums is said to be destined for war uses.

Donovan to Protest Wrecking Contract

Representative John I. Donovan announced today that he will protest to Mayor Curley against the awarding of the contract to raze the Niles building to the New York Wrecking Company. "This company is bonded for only $1,000," he said. "What if a pedestrian is killed? What if adjoining buildings are damaged? Who would bear the responsibility?"

Maryland's Motor Law Is Upheld

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Maryland's motor tax law was declared valid today by the Supreme Court of the United States. The law permits officials of that State to arrest automobilists of the District of Columbia, who drive through Maryland without Maryland tags on their cars.

Prof. Von Werner, Noted Painter, Dead

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Jan. 5.—Professor Anton von Werner, Germany's most famous historical painter, is dead in his seventy-fifth year.

Woman Revives from Sixty-Hour Stupor

Mrs. Thomas Mason, twenty-one, whose home is at Glendale and Ferry streets, Everett, and who had been unconscious for about sixty hours since New Year's Day, when she fell from the piazza of her home to the ground, has regovered partially and physicians predict that she will recover.

WORCESTER FIRE FATAL TO HERMIT

WORCESTER, Jan. 5.—George D. Hayes, seventy, for the past forty years known as the "hermit of Hawkin street," was burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed the shack in which he had lived practically all his life.

Hayes was a good deal of a mystery to his neighbors. Some have hinted his heart had been torn in a youthful romance which had left him bitter, while others say that he had made accumulated money, but a thorough search of the ruins has failed to reveal any strong box.

MRS. SLATER WILL STICK TO WEBSTER

Maternal sentiment alone causes Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater to maintain her residence in Webster.

"I want my sons to live in Webster and grow up in the business of their forefathers," said Mrs. Slater to the Board of Tax Appeals. Her husband, the late Horatio N. Slater, was the leader of Massachusetts woollen business.

And the board decided in favor of Webster. The old town will get Mrs. Slater's corporation taxes amounting to $6,458 and Milton's protest is denied.

PORTUGAL ENTERS THE WAR; FRENCH ADVANCE IN ALSACE

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Portugal has definitely entered the great war on the side of the allies, according to dispatches from Lisbon.

Official announcement was made in the Portuguese Senate today that the troops of the republic had been engaged in battle with German forces in Angola, West Africa. The Premier stated that 4,700 more troops had been concentrated in Angola for the campaign against the Germans. The result of the first engagement was not made known.

Determined to prevent, if possible, any further naval disasters in the Channel through the activity of German submarines, British warships are violently bombarding Zeebrugge, the north Belgian seaport, which has for weeks served as a base of submarine operations. Reports from Paris say considerable damage has been done to the docks and drugge, including the destruction of the water tower. It is believed that the bombardment will be continued until the place is rendered useless to the enemy. Other points on the Belgian coast have been shelled, and it is reported that shells have caused the burning of the village of Dolnberghen, between Hersl and Woesten.

FRENCH GAIN IN ALSACE.

The French, having captured Steinbach, Alsace, in one of the most brilliant engagements of the western campaign, have advanced further, according to today's official reports from Paris.

They have entered the hamlet of Tenx d'Argent, one kilometre to the east of Ordey, and made important gains on the road from Thann to Cernay.

It is asserted that the allies have already been driven twenty miles inside the German lines in Alsace by the implacable attack of the French under General Paul Pau. Mentlingen and the Aspach region to the east of the invading army.

Today's Paris report, covering operations in the entire war theatre, follows:

"The Belgian, despite the condition of the rain and the difficulties resulting therefrom, our infantry has made progress in the dunes before Nieuport. In the region of St. Georges it has gained at various points 200, 300 and 400 yards, capturing houses and parts of trenches at numerous points.

"The Belgian artillery has silenced that of the Germans.

"From the Lys to the Oise, in the region of Notre Dame de Lorette west of Lens, we have, thanks to our mortars and our grenades, completely stopped the sapping operations of the enemy.

BLEW UP TRENCH.

"In the vicinity of the Lille highway the Germans blew up a part of our trenches with a mine and captured it, but an immediate counter attack made us again masters of the position.

"From the Oise to the Vosges there is nothing to report concerning any infantry action.

"In the region of Craonne and of Rheims there were artillery combats. Our batteries effectually bombarded the enemy's positions in the town of Soupir and also in the region of Perthes and of Beausejour. It was the same in the Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse.

"In Alsace to the southeast of Bonhomme Pass we have entered the hamlet of Creux d' Argent, two kilometres west of Ordey, where we are fortifying our position. The gains made on the road from Thann to Cernay have been maintained as far as one kilometre to the east of Old Thann, and our heavy artillery has silenced that of the enemy at a point two miles east of Upper Hurtheim.

"The Berlin war office, in its statement this afternoon, says that a French attack between Steinbach and Aschach has been repulsed.

BOMBS KILL OR WOUND 100.

German airmen, it is officially announced in Berlin, have dropped bombs on the British ammunition bases at Coudekerque and Rosendael, near Dunkirk.

According to the announcement, the aviators destroyed a large quantity of ammunition at both places and set fire to Coudekerque, partly destroying the village and killing and wounding ten.

"In the western theatre north of Arras," says the Berlin official statement, "the artillery duel has been quite long and have taken some progress. The enemy's counter attack failed.

"In the Argonne we repelled several French reconnoissance attack between Steinbach and Aschach. An attack was repulsed by Bavarian grenadiers.

"The situation is unchanged in East Prussia and Northern Poland. Our attacks west of Ossura, near Rosslowbiskupi and south thereof are progressing favorably. At Bolimow we have also advanced as well as east of Rawka via Humin.

"In the region of Nowo Miasto, on the heights toward the north, on the right bank of the Pilica, the situation is unchanged. The conditions of the road is unfavorable and the weather is interfering with our movements."

ITALIANS LAND MARINES.

Italian marines were landed at Durazzo, the capital of Albania, last night, according to an official statement today, and are now holding the city to prevent it from capture and looting by Mussulmans, it is said. The members of the various legations have taken refuge on the Italian warships which have been lying in the harbor for days.

Mediterranean Germans has been officially informed, through an Admiralty announcement, of the destruction of the German battleship Formidable, and of the safe escape of the submarine which sent the battleship to the bottom. This announcement, with that of the capture of the important Austrian city of Borjimow, has caused another outburst of rejoicing in the German capital.

TOOK 2,000 PRISONERS.

German naval experts declare the submarine's feat is further evidence that England's supremacy on the sea is menaced seriously. The military experts at Berlin assert that the fall of Borjimow is of great importance in the campaign against Warsaw.

Borjimow lies nearly four miles east of the confluence of the Bzura and Rawka rivers and commands a direct highway from Lowicz to Warsaw. The little town on the height upon which it rests had been strongly fortified by the Russians and they made desperate attempt to hold it. After it was captured by the Germans the Russians made seven attacks in an attempt to recapture the town, but all these were repulsed.

More than 2,000 Russians, mostly Siberian troops, were captured by the Germans at Borjimow, Berlin announces. From the position they now occupy the Germans command a wide sweep of the surrounding country and their advance upon Warsaw will be greatly facilitated, it is asserted.

The Germans are going to break through the Russian lines before unless the Czar's troops forestall this by a general retreat, says the military expert of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger. "The situation south of the Vistula is now more favorable for us at any other time. Our troops are almost in sight of their goal," the expert says.

News from the Galician theatre as conveyed in the German official reports is more reassuring to the Germans than it has been for several days past. The Austrians state that the repeated efforts of the Russians to break through their lines west and northwest of Gorlice were repulsed with heavy losses to the attacking troops. During the fighting the Austrians claim to have taken the heights south of Gorlice and captured 850 prisoners. The Austrians say that in the last ten days 30,000 Russians prisoners have fallen into the hands of the Austrians.

ANOTHER GREAT BATTLE ON.

Petrograd reports that the most regular battle front extending from the Baltic River south and southwest for eighty miles, the Russians and Germans are again engaged in a terrific battle. The Germans are taking on the offensive along this whole front, but the Russians are occupying positions of great strength, and reports received from the front today state that the German attacks are being repulsed. the dispatches from the Russian capital say:

"The only point the Germans have succeeded in holding captured positions is above Bolimow. The Russians still hold their trenches on the eastern outskirts of Borjimow, Petrograd asserts, and are gaining ground in their attacks to drive the Germans back."

RUSSIAN IN HUNGARY.

A Petrograd dispatch published in Paris says that the Russians have occupied eight towns in Hungary, and that several thousand Austrians are surrounded in the Carpathians.

Sunday afternoon three German Zeppelins flew over the Russian positions in the forests about Kielce and dropped bombs upon the batteries. One gun was badly damaged. Seven bombs were dropped upon the town of Kielce, killing twenty persons.

All communication in Switzerland liable to military service have been ordered to return to their country before the end of January.

Germans' Losses Nearly 1,300,000

NORTHERN FRANCE, Jan. 5.—The four latest lists published by the Prussian authorities contain 17,871 casualties. This brings the total Prussian losses up to 771,073 men. The eighty-three Saxon, eighty-five Wurtemburg, 30 Bavarian and nineteen naval lists published to date contain 500,000 names. The sum total of German losses thus amounts nearly to 1,300,000.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS, TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, the mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing and refresh you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little systems need a good, gentle cleansing, too—Advertisement.

Will Your Teeth Be as Good

10—20—30 years from now as they are today?

The answer depends largely upon whether you use a dentifrice which stops "Acid-Mouth"—the cause of 95% of all tooth decay.

Pebeco Tooth Paste

gives you the best chance in the world to keep your teeth. Once the enamel is pierced, the bacteria of decay make short work of the soft, inside tooth. Dont' let them!

"I like real smokers—men and women who accomplish big things. It's just natural that I should like Pebeco. Pebeco forms, every time."

The taste of Pebeco is indisguised, unsweetened.

Pebeco costs a trifle more. Comes in extra-large tubes. Use one-third of a brushful only.

LEGISLATORS TAKE OATH TOMORROW

The Great and General Court of Massachusetts will convene on Beacon Hill tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

The oath of office will be administered to the legislators by Governor Walsh. Impressive dignity will prevail under the sacred confiteh. Prayer will be offered and the Master of Peace will be invoked to save the Commonwealth. The affairs of the good old State will then be turned over to the solons.

Senator James P. Timilty, Democrat, of Boston, will preside over the immediate deliberations of the Senate by virtue of his seniority of service.

In the House of Representatives Harrison H. Atwood, of Bedford, who served back in 1896, will hold the floor until permanent organization is affected.

Permanent organization of the Senate will find Calvin Coolidge of Northampton again President of the Senate.

Representative Channing H. Cox of Boston, floor leader of the Republican membership, will be elected Speaker of the House.

Senator Coolidge's re-election was conceded on the day the voters of the Berkshire, Hampshire and Hampden district decided to return him to the Senate. Mr. Cox's election was conceded when Representative Henry E. Bothfeld of Newton withdrew from the sponsorship campaign "because of other duties."

Many new faces will mark the choice of permanent officers. In the Senate the new Democratic majority chose to honor Senator Timilty by their action, but the Democratic theory as in the House, are in hopeless minority. Perhaps Senator Bonner of Fall River, an able and progressive Democrat, or Martin M. Lomasney, the famous Ward 8 leader, will be honored in the House.

With a ratio of seven to thirty-three in the Senate and eighty-seven to 153 in the House, the Democrats could effect no fruitful amalgamation with the Progressive minority. Should the latter consent to two lone survivors consequently the opening day will not be marked by balloting and bolters, by balloting and ballots for by promises and counter disappointments.

George P. Webster of Roxford, by the way, will remain in Boxford this winter. The well-liked Progressive leader has been dismissed by James G. Page of Haverhill, a Republican, and Charles H. Merrill, the lone standard-bearer of Socialism, will continue to add political color to the complexion of Haverhill's delegation.

So with Mr. Coolidge as President of the Senate and Mr. Cox as Speaker of the House, the Republican organization will continue, intrenched more solidly than ever behind the breastworks but with a compact, active and progressive Democratic Governor to urge it along a progressive course.

Henry D. Coolidge of Concord will be re-elected clerk of the Senate, and Hon. Edward A. Harding of Boston will continue as the captain of the upper branch.

James W. Kimball of Swampscott, who first espied Begorra Hill a boy in short trousers and who for twenty years has served as clerk of the Republican committee, will be re-elected. The Rev. Daniel W. Waldron of Boston will again be chosen chaplain of the House.

Action Demanded Against Canadians

BUFFALO, Jan. 5.—The Aldermen have unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the United States government to take action to secure the punishment of those responsible for the shooting of Walter Smith and Charles Dorsch by Canadian soldiers on the Niagara River at Fort Erie. Smith was instantly killed and Dorsch seriously wounded.

NEW LAWS URGED BY UNION LABOR

Abolition of the State Board of Labor and Industries and the creation of the office of State labor commissioner is sought by the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor in a petition filed today with the Legislature.

The new commissioner would be elected by the people. His term would be three years and his salary $7,500 a year.

Reorganization of the prison commission is outlined in another of the bills filed by organized labor. The new commission of three members, one of whom would be a woman, would be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Council. The chairman's salary would be $4,000. There would be a deputy commissioner, elected by the commission, at a salary of $3,500.

The new board would be vested with the powers and privileges of the present advisory board of paroles and pardons.

Still another bill in organized labor's program provides that any complaint made by a labor union against the wages or labor conditions of any of its members employed by public service corporations shall be heard within thirty days by either the State Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners or by the Public Service Commission, and that the decision must be handed down within ninety days.

Organized labor further petitions that children under eighteen years of age and women employed in industrial establishments and by public service corporations shall not be employed longer than nine hours a day or more than forty-eight hours a week.

The fifth labor bill filed today provides that compensation under the workmen's compensation act shall be paid to the injured employe from the date of injury if the employe is incapacitated for a period of at least seventy-eight days. The maximum of compensation would be $14 a week.

Vermin and Scurvy in British Trenches

LONDON, Jan 5.—British troops in the trenches in West Flanders and Northern France are suffering seriously from scurvy and vermin. Water is scarce for drinking purposes and almost none at all is to be had for bathing purposes, despite the great quantities of rain that have fallen. The following letter from a member of the Queen Victoria Rifles, Middlesex regiment says:

"I have not had my clothes or my boots off for twenty days. All the others are in the same fix and the men begin to suffer from scurvy and vermin."

Archduchess Lauds U. S. Red Cross Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A foreign office dispatch to the Austro-Hungarian embassy here says:

"Archduchess Isabelle, wife of the commander-in-chief, Archduke Frederick, has inspected the American Red Cross Hospital. The archduchess expressed great satisfaction with the perfect organization of the hospital."

WOMAN SUICIDE'S SON FIGHTS WILL

F. Irving Austin of San Francisco, an Alaskan gold miner, is in Boston today, making plans to contest the $250,000 will left by his mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Osborne, who committed suicide by hanging herself on December 16, at her home, No. 1024 Commonwealth avenue.

By the terms of the will Osborne and his brother, Frank W. Osborne, of Salem, will divide the estate after a number of bequests have been made, several of which are public.

Osborne is also investigating the circumstances of the death of his mother. He declares he has striven in vain to get the facts concerning his mother's suicide from public officials. He maintains that if the verdict of Medical Examiner Cutts of Brookline, describing her act as "attributable to insanity," is correct, her will must be invalid.

He points out that if she was not sane at the time of her death she could not have been sane when she made her will a few weeks previous to her death.

He maintains, that, while in his opinion his half, no provision of any kind is made for his family, and that if he were to die within a month these dependent upon him would receive no benefit of any kind.

The will will probably be filed at Dedham this week, and then Osborne will instruct his attorney, Melvin O. Adams, to start a contest suit.

American Santa Claus in Russia

PETROGRAD, Jan. 5.—One of the American colony of Moscow has contributed 3,500 presents for Russian children whose fathers are at the front. The gifts consist of gloves, shoes, caps and other articles of clothing, and their distribution is to be completed before the Russian Christmas.

BEULAH DIX GIVES REPLY TO MAYOR

Beulah Marie Dix, author of the war play, "Across the Border," like Eugene Walter, author of "The Easiest Way," and Will N. Harben, a Georgia playwright, is astonished at magorality censorship in Boston. Mayor Curley put his ban on her play when produced at the Toy Theatre because of curses and oaths uttered in the fourth act.

The play had a long run in New York, where not objection was raised to its language. It was written to portray the horrors of war and is realistic. The author does not apprecite how a battlefield echo can be like the cooing of a dove.

Miss Dix defended her play today. She said:

"To me it is a shocking condition that I have a play to be ordered from the boards at a moment's notice and without warning. This play of mine has had a long and successful run in New York city without a word of criticism of the nature given it by Mayor Curley. It is I who published by Mayor Curley. It is I who published by Mayor Curley. It is I who published

SCHOOL GIRL KILLS HERSELF WITH GUN

PAWTUCKET, Jan. 5.—Miss Mary Elizabeth Jack, an eighteen-year-old student at the Pawtucket High School died at the Memorial Hospital today, from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Her relatives have stated she has been in poor health for some time. They believe this condition was brought on by overstudy.

PUFFERS IN NEW LOVE TANGLE

PASTOR PUFFER'S MARRIAGE MIXUP.

In February, 1907, after twenty-two years of wedlock the Rev. Charles H. Puffer, pastor of the Universalist Church, Salem, and his wife agreed to a three-year trial divorce.

Three months later the trial divorce became completed when Edward A. Empey of Canada sued Dr. Puffer for $25,000 for alienation of his wife's affections. Mrs. Empey had been housekeeper for the Puffers.

In 1909 Mrs. Puffer startled society by making her stage debut at the Castle Square Theatre.

Less than a year later she filed suit for divorce on grounds of desertion.

In April, 1910, Judge Raymond in the Suffolk Divorce Court freed her.

In January, 1913, Dr. Puffer was secretly married to Mrs. Viola E. Empey in New York.

Six weeks later Dr. Puffer severed his connection with the Salem Universalist Church after members of the congregation had criticised his marriage.

Mrs. Elenore Puffer, divorced wife of the minister, sues Mrs. Viola Empey Puffer for $25,000, charging alienation of affections.

Mrs. Elenore Puffer well known stage beauty, who in 1907 startled society when she agreed to a trial divorce with the Rev. Charles H. Puffer, then pastor of the Salem Universalist Church and who three years later secured a divorce in Boston, has filed suit in East Cambridge for $25,000 for alienation of affection against Mrs. Viola Empey Puffer, her successor as the pastor's wife.

The filing of this suit seven years after the Puffers first came into prominence by the signing of their trial divorce agreement, further complicates the matrimonial tangle of the minister.

Soon after Dr. Puffer and his wife agreed to live apart Charles A. Empey of Canada became the principal actor in the marriage tangle, when he filed suit against the preacher for $25,000, alleging alienation of his wife's affections. His wife, Mrs. Viola Empey, had been for years employed by the Puffers as housekeeper.

Soon after Empey filed his suit Mrs. Puffer became an actress and made her debut at the Castle Square Theatre. Since that time she has appeared in many shows and has won a high name for herself.

The trial divorce became a reality when in April, 1910, Mrs. Puffer secured a decree from Judge Raymond in the Suffolk Divorce Court.

Three years later Dr. Puffer, who was still pastor of the Salem church, was secretly married in New York to his former housekeeper, Mrs. Empey.

Rob Mrs. Busch, 3rd, of $14,000 Jewels

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—Jewels valued at $14,000, including an engagement ring and numerous presents from Adolphus Busch, 3rd, to his wife, disappeared Sunday afternoon from a jewel case in a bedroom drawer in the Busch's country home. There was a pearl ring, valued at $2,000, Mrs. Busch's engagement ring, $1,500; diamond ring, $700; a ring of emeralds and little diamonds, $400.

Leominster Girl Commits Suicide

LEOMINSTER, Jan. 5.—Miss Lelda G. Meader, twenty-one, is dead at her home at No. 253 Hamilton street, having killed herself by firing a bullet into her brain.

According to the Medical Examiner, Dr. F. H. Thompson of Fitchburg, the girl committed the act while in a fit of despondency over poor health.

She secured a revolver, which was in the home, and, pressing the muzzle against her right ear, pulled the trigger.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably seventy-five-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little water taken after meals. This gives the after effect which not only neutralizes the acid, but prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Bisurated magnesia when used as above may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bicarbated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.—Advertisement.

Ferncroft Heart Trial On
Miss Ryan Sues for $15,000

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, suing Harry Mansfield for $15,000 in breach of promise case.

Jury Quickly Chosen to Hear Evidence Against Harry Mansfield.

Trial of Miss Elizabeth Ryan's $15,000 breach of promise suit against Harry Mansfield, proprietor of the Ferncroft Inn, was begun in the Suffolk Superior Court this afternoon before Judge Fessenden and a jury.

The courtroom was thronged with eager spectators, some of whom were women. Miss Ryan made a striking figure in a brown suit and picture hat.

In the picking of the jury there were but two challenges, one by each side. Everett Morse, a Boston manufacturer, was chosen foreman of the jury. The case opened with an address by Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for Miss Ryan.

At the opening of court Michael Sullivan, counsel for Mansfield, asked that a bill in equity brought by Sherman L. Whipple, formerly counsel for Miss Ryan, "to reach and apply" Mansfield's personal property, be dismissed.

Judge Fessenden refused to do this on a stipulation that the plaintiff if she wins her suit, would not press the "reach and apply" bill.

Miss Ryan, who had come over from New York where she has a theatrical engagement, was at the court house for some time yesterday afternoon, but the case was not reached. Anticipating that the trial of the heart balm action would surely begin today, several women were waiting in the lobby, eager to obtain seats, for it is reported a number of letters Miss Ryan alleges Mr. Mansfield wrote her may be read.

Nothing has been said as to whom Miss Ryan will call as witnesses to support her allegations that the plans for her wedding were discussed in many places in the State and abroad. It is also said a promise to wed was not only made by Mr. Mansfield, but on several occasions.

This the defendant denied, at the same time filing a long list of questions for the plaintiff to answer.

THAW TO RETURN WITHOUT FIGHT

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 5.—It is reliably reported here that Harry Thaw will make no further legal fight in this State against returning to New York. It is understood that Thaw's counsel advises him that any further action that could be brought here would eventually prove of no avail and would result only in an unnecessary delay in the fight which is in progress to make it possible for Thaw, according to the same authority, to be taken to the state prison at Dannemora, New York without questioning the boundary of the Supreme Court.

The second pleased factor that is credited by the statement of Dr. Morton Prince, the Boston alienist, who installed an antiquated the methods employed by courts to determine insanity and who termed a verdict of "justice" the acquittal of the slayer of Stanford White.

Nor did Dr. Prince's assertion: That no one was a financier, they retain their eggs so hard they can not soon able to unscramble them.

There are only two other of the epic passage in the extended statement which Mr. Thaw could be induced in any way to discuss was that relating to the psychological history of the case, which the Boston expert declared if ever written would be "as dramatic as anything that has ever appeared in drama or fiction."

The statement showed that the only thing in the Prince statement which Mr. Thaw or his attorneys resented was the insinuation that the jury had been deceived at the trial. Here is the statement, which bore Secretary Rice's indorsement:

"Dr. Morton Prince's medical opinion is above criticism, but on the high duty there is one thing more to add.

"To claim that Thaw deceived any jury is an error. In March and April, 1907, before the end of the first trial, all Mr. Thaw's alienists honestly admitted in open court, where his life was in jeopardy, that he was sane and so testified. The commission appointed by the court, consisting of David McClure, Judge Peter H. Otley and Dr. Putnel, on April 1, 1907, unanimously gave judgment: 'The said Harry K. Thaw is sane.'

Was this a case of deceiving the jury?

HOGANSBY URGED FOR THE HOGANS

The Hogan family, who jumped into the limelight by attempting to change their name for social and other reasons, first to Hogansby and then to Hogan, have now a new suggestion of their own.

It is that they take the name of Hogansby in the future.

William Sumner Appleton, corresponding secretary of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, advises the Hogans their name was correct in 1910, saying:

"Originally it a good old English name known in New England. There is no Hogansby in the Boston directory.

"Antiquarianism, it is understood, is to launch a vigorous campaign to have the Hogans return to the family name or eschewer the compromising well-known historic name.

Regarding recently Lynde Smith, who, after repeating his society as a gaiety is about at the Hogan's hearing, went on to take place in Hogansby, Mr. Appleton said:

"The practice of our new citizens in taking the names of historic families is becoming altogether too common, and must be stamped at once. We shall make no stands again the Hogans, but an amendment has been presented to me as attorney for the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities that may safeguard our only historic names. Mr. Alden, the Standishes, the Winthrops, and others of distinguished record.

"The amendment to the laws of the Commonwealth will be read as to make it necessary for any person or family desiring to change a name to see to it that not only the Society and Antiquities should be informed, but that other historic societies shall have equal warning.

Mr. Sullivan said he believed every one should be with him that a new citizen lately come to America taking the name of Henry L. Higginson, for instance, might not only cause the original of that distinguished name much embarrassment but might, if dishonest, make trouble for many others.

MAYOR CURLEY'S REPLY TO ATTACK MADE BY FORMER MAYOR FITZGERALD IN CITY COUNCIL

Performances of Past Year Cited By Chief Executive in Defence of His Policies.

...business unquestionably ...one greatest achievement of ...present administration during ...year.

...Boston Industrial Bureau, ...established for the promotion of ...business life of our city, justified ...creation with a record of ...$12,000,000, largely of new industries, in the six weeks subsequent ...its birth.

Contracts for street lighting, covering a period of ten years and subject to revision during the period, have been adopted at an annual saving to the taxpayers of $116,000, or a total of $1,160,000 during the life of the contracts.

The custom in vogue for many years of purchasing supplies in wholesale quantities at retail prices has been abandoned, and the more modern, efficient, honest and businesslike system of purchasing all goods required by various departments for an entire year, under contract, and to award in all cases to the lowest reputable bidder, instituted.

Through the adoption of this method [illegible] ...ascertained, and specific items ...as high as [illegible] annually, have been made possible.

Private and [illegible] ...streets, usually disgraceful [illegible] and spring and [illegible] ...of disease, ...Supreme and Superior ...have been arranged and [illegible] ...at an outside ...cost of $1,100,000.

...the number of public health ...nurses employed has been increased ...from seven to thirty-seven, ...placed in frame sheds and open ...rooms scattered throughout the city, ...and numerous wooden sewers, in ...use for more than half a century, have been gradually displaced by ...concrete and brick.

The lowest death rate in the history of Boston was achieved in 1914, and the lowest death rate per thousand among the large cities of the country, and the ...decrease during 1915 will be to improve even this record.

...fire losses, largest as a result of ...reorganization by all departments and the motorization of the department, have been reduced more than $1,000,000 during 1914.

FIRE TRAPS RAZED.

Every public lodging house and private hospital has been equipped with sprinkler systems and fire escapes, while more than 100 dilapidated, unsightly fire traps have been demolished, and this work will continue until the city is free of these objectionable and dangerous encumbrances.

Under the widow's pension act, a sum twice as great as in previous years has been made available, and no needy widow has been denied liberal assistance.

A custom of many years' growth, namely, presenting truants and not making a majority of them criminals through environment, has been abolished, and 119 boys considered lost to society have been restored to their parents, and saved to a useful future.

With a view to making the Boston City Hospital the most municipal hospital in the United States, more than $1[illegible],000 has this year been expended, and with the development of the abandoned parental school property, containing 1,500,000 feet of land, and really valued at $500,000, Boston will shortly have the most complete convalescent hospital in the United States, and the requirements of the next century will be anticipated.

MILLIONS SAVED.

During 1914 there were issued 13,000 permits to open streets, and failure to properly restore street surfaces resulted in an injury of not less than $250,000, which through an ordinance this year adopted, will be chargeable to the persons or corporations to whom permits are issued, the work or restoration to be performed by employes of the city.

The removal of the Cove Street Bridge, and the abandonment of a suit under which the city would have been compelled to pay damages amounting to approximately $1,000,000, has been consummated.

Installation of the high pressure fire system has already resulted in the removal of the 15 per cent. penalty placed on down town property subsequent to the San Francisco fire, and work will be continued regardless of weather until installation has been completed.

The custom of granting salary increases but once during the year has relieved the Mayor of importunities, usually unjustifiable, and the taxpayers of expense, inevitably unwarranted.

PLAN BATHING BEACH.

It is my purpose during 1915 to establish at South Boston a bathing beach two miles in length with a white sand beach 150 feet in width, and with a breakwater which will result in the flats now exposed being covered at all times, and disagreeable disease-breeding odors and conditions abated.

Extension of boulevard system of lighting and sanitary noiseless paving generally throughout the city will be the policy during the coming year.

Development of sunken ross and rhododendron garden, Lake Parkway, with a botanical building in keeping with surrounding structures will be established in the Fenway.

Completion of the Outer boulevard makes necessary the establishment of a better connecting link between Quincy and Boston, and I shall endeavor to secure the passage of a bill for bridge connecting Quincy and Boston.

Absence of trees upon our broader highways is a reflection upon our intelligence, and I shall conduct a tree planting campaign during the year.

The School Department, having outgrown its present quarters, I shall urge immediate action upon the construction of a building in which all branches of the School Department may be housed.

The growth of the city ...necessitates the creation of ...freight yard. I am informed, ...in consequence of [illegible] ...shippers may be saved annually more than half a million dollars ...in transfer charges, and our ...streets may be free of the encumbrance of union freight railroad cars and I have prepared a bill for this purpose.

LIQUOR SALE WITH MEALS IS FAVORED

Boston restaurants and cafes, even if not connected with hotels, will be able to serve liquors with meals, if the recommendation o the Licensing Board is accepted by Governor Walsh.

The commissioners find wines and beers as much a part of the average person's diet as coffee or tea.

"I have noticed in Continental Europe and other places in which I have had occasion to travel that the best class of men and women have a cordial or a wine with their dinner, lunch or tea, and they do not seem only the worse for it," commented Chairman William P. Fowler.

"In Europe the drinking of a light wine or beer with one's meal is considered quite in proper taste and the practice is general. I, personally, cannot why we should restrict the sale of a beverage with meals to a few restaurants and hotels, in that way taking the pleasure of a harmless glass of wine or beer from the person who can afford only the fare in an inexpensive place.

"Under the present conditions, the man or woman who is forced by circumstances to go to the cheaper restaurant for his or her meals, goes to the saloon afterward to get what the restaurant is not allowed to sell."

PASTOR'S PRAYER STIRS GLOUCESTER

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 5.—The prayer of the Rev. L. M. Powers, D. D., pastor of the Universalist Church, made at the inauguration exercises of the Mayor and Aldermen, has stirred the city. He prayed for the retiring Mayor and hoped God would forgive him for his many mistakes, and prayed that he be kept from repenting them in his new position as Representative. He prayed for the Mayor-elect and Aldermen, mentioning all by name.

Then he prayed for all citizens, saying:

"We confess, Lord, that we are in this city a logy, grouchy set of citizens, most of us. We no sooner elect men to office than we find fault with them. Help us to see that good citizenship is an all-round job that cannot be delegated to others. Amen."

"I had no idea my prayer would make such a disturbance," the pastor said today. "I merely thought I would pray for the Mayor-elect and the retiring Mayor in terms to awaken them to higher responsibilities.

"What's the use of praying unless you arouse in your hearers the sentiment of better things. I made my prayer practical. All the names of the aldermen were mentioned, because I was talking to a personal God.

"I did not mean to say anything unconventional. My spirit was moved to say what I did. I feel all along you should pray to make people think. I have certainly done this if I am to judge by the demonstration the prayer has made.

"But I did not intend to be irreverent. This never entered my mind.

"We have good honest officers for the coming year, and may God help them to do their best is what I wanted my prayer to awaken in the hearts of every one."

HEAD AND NOSE STOPPED FROM A COLD? TRY THIS!

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours.

Your cold will break and all grippe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute. —Advertisement.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal remedy. That in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home, and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about. The worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, soothing the inflamed membranes, and, since the healing effect reaches all the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and nauseous dropping in the back of the throat, the other symptoms that often accompany catarrhal poison, and which tax often severely the vitality of the sufferer, are nearly always overcome. All catarrhal troubles are said to be directly caused by impure blood, and, as this prescription is said to make rich, red blood, relief from catarrhal troubles can be realized by this simple home treatment.

Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

WHITE'S GREAT JANUARY MARK-DOWN SALE

R.H.WHITE Co

TWO IN ONE!

Just two years ago we purchased the stock of the Butler Apparel Shops, corner of Washington and Winter Streets, Boston—which failed.

All New England remembers that failure and sale — remembers the incredible bargains, the surging crowds and the enormous volume of sales.

That was in January, 1913.

Then came January, 1914—and we decided to hold an anniversary of the 1913 sale. Of course, we thought we'd have a big sale, but we never expected the enormous response that came.

Once more it showed that the public remembers where and when it gets the biggest bargains.

And so we are now face to face with the business necessity of Breaking Our Own Great Record of Last Year.

How we have gone about it—what Tremendous Money-Saving Bargains we have secured for Spot Cash—

YOU WILL SEE

when you get here. A few of the bargains you may read about here in today's paper, but you can see many more all displayed — hundreds upon hundreds of them—For the Greatest of All These Anniversary sales.

Combined this year with our Great January Mark-Down Sale

PRETTY GIRLS LEAD THE WAY IN BOOSTING BOWLING AS GREAT INDOOR SPORT

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

LEADING EASTERN BOXERS ENTERED IN GREAT AMATEUP SHOW TO BE GIVEN BY B. A. A.

BRAVES MAY PLAY ATHLETICS IN A SPRING SERIES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5.—W. O. Vinnant, Jr., secretary of the Jacksonville Baseball Association, is in receipt of a communication from Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, in regard to the games to be played in Jacksonville during the spring of 1916. The games which have already been booked by Manager Mack are as follows: Chicago Cubs, March 17, 18 and 19; Philadelphia Nationals (which will be the first intercity-series that has ever been played between Philadelphia teams outside of the Quaker City), March 25 and 26. The Athletics also have a date booked with the Dodgers for April 3, but as it is possible that the Athletics may leave for Philadelphia on March 26, the Jacksonville club may take over this date.

All other dates were left to the discretion of Mr. Vinnant, as Manager Mack leaving the matter entirely to his discretion. There will be a number of big league teams in Florida and its immediate vicinity during the preliminary season, and there will no doubt be several lively contests played in this city, the Boston Braves, champions of the world; the Chicago Cubs, the Philadelphia Nationals, the Cleveland Americans, the Brooklyn Nationals and the Louisville and Columbus members of the American Association are also to train in the vicinity of Jacksonville.

As has been published previously in these columns, the fans of Jacksonville are anxious to see the participants in the recent World's Series perform at Barre Field, and if George Stallings, whose team will train at Macon, will just say the word, such a series will be arranged. In his letter to Secretary Vinnant Connie Mack states that he is perfectly willing to play the Braves in Jacksonville, but owing to the recent differences that occurred between Manager Stallings and himself, he does not feel that it is incumbent upon him to open negotiations with the Boston manager.

At the same time, from the tone of his letter, it appears that he is anxious for such a series to be played, and suggests certain dates, stating that he is also willing to play return series at Macon if Stallings so desires.

As Stallings practically started his baseball career in Jacksonville and was discovered in this city, he has a number of friends here who are not only anxious to see the greatest baseball team of 1915, but are eager and anxious to accord a rousing reception to the "Miracle Man." If Boston or some of Stallings' admirers and staunch friends will go the limit and get the Braves to perform here, Jacksonville is going so far as to say that it would make a personal trip to Stallings' home to induce him to come here.

BIG BOWLING BOOM IN BOSTON
CALL OF ALLEYS HEARD BY ALL

By NICK FLATLEY.

To bowl's the thing in Boston nowadays, as you can very easily find out if you care to ask almost anybody you chance to meet.

Men, women and children, sexes are taking up the alley game with the greatest enthusiasm.

Scores of new alleys have been built in Boston in the past few months. Others are now in the course of construction. The people in the business of catering this sport fad are making the cash to take full advantage of the present great vogue.

The beauties of the game's popularity was called to attention by a recent incident between a couple of pretty girls in a street car. It ran something as follows:

"You were there some time last night, Mabel. We took the last by thirty pins."

GIRLS STRONG FOR GAME.

"Good. Our league rolls tonight and we expect to win, too. Don't you think bowling's just perfectly lovely?"

And enough more along the same lines to make it very evident that the game had claimed the fair sex for its own.

Forthwith we started to investigate and discovered the following surprising facts—surprising, that is, to us, for the people who were "there" believed it perfectly natural:

That there are in Greater Boston approximately 600 bowling alleys.

That there are more than a hundred public places devoted exclusively to bowling.

That in the course of a week some 50,000 people bowl some 150,000 strings.

That there are more than a hundred bowling leagues.

That bowling is a great fad with girls and women, and that it is working havoc with the whist party and other forms of indoor amusement, heretofore indigenous to the average Boston loss in the Winter.

That there are a half dozen women's leagues in full blast, with star rollers, and that more are constantly forming.

That all businesses and professions are now represented by their leagues.

That the busy men who needs exercise and cannot golf on the snow-clad links now finds himself advised by his medico to go out and bowl.

That often the medico goes with him, to see that he follows the advice.

These are a few. There are many more facts of a like surprise. The person who has paid but passing interest in the most popular of Indoor sports.

Though to be candid, there are, as far as we can discover, mighty few who have but passing interest in Matter of fact, the bowling fever is in such wise stimulated by the fad bug.

Your bowler talks to everybody he meets about his high string and his low ball, like the golfer talks about his medal round and his missed putts and other things you miss in golf.

GAME REQUIRES SKILL.

When an easy spare is lost by a few inches, it's just as hard to avoid vocalizing the cries of polite execration as it is to follow a similar course after slicing a drive into a howling lake or impenetrable lilac bush.

The game requires its special skill, too, and mild skill is acquired only after long and arduous practice.

But the difficulties are more than cancelled by the great joy that a good hit in a tight game brings.

There's nothing that like the light of almost supernal joy that brightens the bowler's eye when he or she as the case may be, avenges the alley clean with the first ball, or splits a couple of pins for a hard spare and tries to walk back to the chagrined opponent looking as if he, or she, knew very well it was going to happen all the time.

Once a bowler gets to be able to shoot the ball down the alley in something like the general direction intended the game has him in its grip and he's signed for life.

WONDERFUL GROWTH.

That's why, too, the number of alleys and the number of bowlers in and about Boston has more than trebled. That's why, too, said number promises to increase still more as many devotees as many devotees as baseball.

March games, on which plenty of money changes hands when the stars are at it, draw great crowds. In the newer alleys, the proprietors whenever possible are having space for bleachers. There's not room enough now for the fans who want to watch the big stars perform.

In an article tomorrow, we will tell why a physician recommends bowling to his patients who need exercise.

Passing, we will say that our investigation started us to bowling. Now we know there's nothing like it and are rapidly developing callouses on our fingers and an inordinate desire to tell everybody how we finally rolled a hundred and would have gone higher if we hadn't had a little hard luck with the deadwood in the eighth frame, and so on, ad infinitum.

BOWLING LEAGUE MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

GREATER BOSTON—Regal at Brunswick, Terminal at Rowe's Wharf, Winthrop at Bowdoin Square, Casino at Murray, Edgerton at Cambridge.

CATHOLIC UNION—Team 1 vs. Team 3.

CHARLESTOWN—Dustyn vs Emmets at Hibernian Alleys, Charlestown.

Notes of the Alley's

THE crack Edgerton Square team of Forest Hills, which is waging a hard fight among the leaders of the Greater Boston Bowling League, will go to Cambridge tonight to roll the Loop quintet, in what should prove to be the best match of the evening in the organization. Only a point separates the two teams, with the Universality five being but seven games in the rear of the Bowdoin Square leaders.

* * *

BOWDOIN SQUARE will encounter no easy proposition when it tackles the Winthrop team at the Bowdoin Square alleys tonight. Now occupying a position well down the ladder, has done much better this season than the old-time record, and should be able to make it interesting for the peacemakers.

* * *

MURRAY and Rowe's Wharf will have a comparatively easy time of it, the former rolling duckpins at home, while the latter will entertain the Terminal team.

Murray and Rowe's Wharf have a postponed match to roll off and, until it is decided, neither will have obtained on their standing. The match probably will take place on Tuesday night, as the Murray team has proposed this date, but whether or not it is agreeable to Rowe's Wharf team has not yet been learned.

* * *

HOOVER, rated as one of the best ballepin rollers in the country, has joined the local ranks and probably will make his first public appearance here tonight in the Boston Bottlepin League matches at the New Boston alleys. Hoover recently made his home in Buffalo, N. Y.

* * *

THE Brunswick-Balke team defeated the John McGann & Co. quintet in a match game at the Chauncy alleys last night. Poehler anchored for the Brunswicks and returned in three rolling strings of 345. Archie Walsh rolled in the corresponding position for the losers and was only twelve pins behind his teammate.

* * *

A big list of bowlers have entered for the weekly handicap at the Adams Square alleys tonight.

* * *

FRED WILLIAMS, manager of the American alleys, has something to the nature of a surprise for the bandolin artists. It is announced another big tourney and will shortly appear in the list of events.

* * *

A rattling finish is looked for in the Newton bottlepin League tomorrow night. Riverdale and North Gate will go to the line bowling in the first place, with Newtowne only a point behind them. It is seldom that a championship race is settled in the very final matches before a decision is reached.

* * *

FOUR of the six teams in the Greater Boston Y. M. C. A. League will have a chance to go into the lead tonight when Eliot and Hyde field, tied for first place, and Boston and Wakefield, joint holders of third place, are in the drive for the top rung.

* * *

THE Wire Chiefs have a great opportunity to pull away from the field in the Telephone League this evening when they will tackle the Division Engineers, and as the latter hold up the rear in the field, the Cheferson should have little trouble in getting on the big end of the score.

* * *

MORGAN, Gangi and Sullivan are making a pretty fight for the individual leadership of the K. of C. League. Morgan has a little the better of it to date, though he is only a single point to the fore of his two competitors.

* * *

MORSE will battle Atkinson for the runner-up position in the Furniture League tonight. Morse must win three points to gain the place. This race is growing tight once again and Reeves promises of coming into a corker before the season is many weeks older.

* * *

GIBSON is rolling a very consistent game in the Telephone League and is leading the individuals with a fine average of 109.

* * *

THE Globe 1st team took the lead away from the Post in the Newspaper League yesterday by winning all four points. The Post was a game to the good before the match started.

N. Y. Got $32,000 from Boxing Bouts

Boxing paid New York state a revenue of $32,000, according to the annual report of the State Athletic Commission, made public by Charles H. Harvey, secretary of the commission.

The report shows that in the past year the total receipts of the clubs were approximately $650,000, of which the State received a 5 per cent. revenue, amounting to about $32,000.

Thirty-one new clubs were licensed by the commission during the year, making a total of 132 licenses issued altogether since the commission started operations.

Giants Get Lobert in Fight with Feds

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Hans Lobert, of the Phillies, is now a Giant. He was secured after a spirited skirmish with two members of the Federal League by Manager McGraw.

In return the Giants gave Pitcher Al Demaree, Milton Stock, the third baseman, and Jack Adams, the young catcher.

In addition to these players, Manager McGraw says the Giants also gave some money, but he would not say how much.

Dr. McCarthy for Coach at Tufts

Dr. W. F. McCarthy of Arlington has been selected by the Tufts athletic advisory board as coach for the track team for the coming season. The well known allround coach is known in athletic circles having been closely identified with all the different institutions for the past ten years. McCarty is a graduate of Cornell and while at that institution was a member of the track team for several years.

Billiard Tourney Opens Here Tonight

The opening of a series of three or 18.2 balkline between Jerome Keogan and Walter Cochran takes place at the Boston Billiard Parlors tonight. Keogan is a former champion at the 18.1 style of play and is now showing formidable form.

EVERS IS ORDERED SOUTH FOR HEALTH

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Johnny Evers, captain of the Boston Braves, who contracted a severe attack of pneumonia while in New York last month, has been ordered by his physician to refrain from baseball.

Evers and his family will go to Camden, S. C., within a short time, and the Braves' leaders will remain there until it is time to report to the Boston club at Macon, Ga., on March 1. Evers will spend a month of his time in the South playing golf.

Mann Will Sign a Contract With Braves

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Leslie Mann, Boston Braves outfielder, will not sign with the Federal League. After a talk with Joe Tinker, manager of the Chifeds, he said he was on his way to Boston and would sign with the Braves upon his arrival there.

Detroit Star Signs With the Federals

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—President Gilmore of the Fed League has announced that Miles Maine, the stellar outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, has signed a two-year contract with the League. Maine's signature would not relate with what club Maine would play.

HOCKEY NOTES AND GOSSIP

Chas. Fed Rooks and Trainer Art Reden will not be the Portsmouth Indoor Baseball team this afternoon after a two-week's stay in Boston, every member of the team will go home this morning as a result of the duty being laid on the players by the Navy Department. The team is booked to play Providence at the Auditorium this afternoon and will go to Manchester tomorrow.

* * *

The B. A. A. and the Avoca Hockey Club seven will play next Tuesday evening and the game will be played on the Commonwealth Avenue lagoon. Avoca team has played as yet this season but Tuesday night will be their first game before the Unlucky team.

* * *

The Avoca team has been practicing faithfully for the game and from all reports is in fine condition for it. Each member of the team is known to be a star and the players are happy to be playing with Clarence Sinnett and Ormsbee Wood, Rowdy and Scoggin in centre, Goudet and Sullivan on defence, and Norman Sinnett in the cage.

* * *

You remember the star defence player on the Avoca team of last season, who starred in the hockey session at his home in Moncton, Gerald Lloyd, who will play in the Dominion city of Moncton in one position to play his usual hard game.

* * *

The Ottawa Hockey Club has decided not to play Quebec at Quebec. Sammy Hebert, who was to have been the referee in the game, has resigned. Weeks were spent trying to get Hebert to change his mind, but he refused. Hebert would go to Wanderers, but the management has not listened to take chances and will carry Hebert to Montreal to referee the game.

* * *

President Lemaire of the Montreal City Hockey League stated that the league would not consider the application of the Quebec Professionals, who have written asking for admission to the league. Lemaire stated that the managers had decided weeks ago that they would not have any more professionals in the league, and that the application would be turned down. President Lemaire also stated that he knew of no professionals brought to his notice.

* * *

Montgomery, the star Shawinigan player who turned professional when he signed with the Wanderers, has been released by Manager Patrick, of the Ottawas, and will be given a contract by the Montreal team. Montgomery's services have not lacked appreciativeness around the upper Canada city.

* * *

Donald Smith, the star centre man of the Canadian Soldiers' team, which won the Ottawa Hockey League championship last season, will not play with the Ottawa team this season. Smith has gone to the front with the 38th Battalion and will be a member of that team.

* * *

At a meeting of the Intercollegiate Board of Governors of Ottawa, it was decided not to accept Ottawa College's application to the union this season.

* * *

Under the caption of "A Note of Warning to President Calder," the Montreal Gazette, in its issue of Monday morning, says: "The meeting of the Montreal Hockey League tonight will be the occasion for the president to call the attention to the rough work that has been indulged in by some of the players in the league. Several scathing and scarifying letters have been received by the Gazette during the past week from fans who are disgusted with the rough tactics that have been indulged in by some of the players in the league. The McNamara ball game, which was played on Saturday night, was a disgrace to hockey, and the referee, Mr. Hebert, should have put his foot down on the rough work that was indulged in by some of the players. Such work as was indulged in by some of the players in the McNamara game should not be allowed, and the referee should have the power to put the offending player off the ice for the remainder of the game. Such tactics as were indulged in by some of the players in the McNamara game are not wanted in hockey, and the referee should be empowered

WHITTED AND TYLER NAMED IN PHILADELPHIA TRADE FOR SHERWOOD MAGEE

BOSTON MEN AT BIG AUTO SHOW

By J. C. KERRIBON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—It would seem as though the leaders of the Boston automobile industry had for the time being transferred their place of business from Boston to the motor show now being held in the Grand Central Palace. In a tour through the building one meets many men whose names are closely allied with the motor industry of Boston. The majority of these men have been here since Saturday.

Included in the number are J. H. MacAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, who spends his time at the Stearns' booth; Arthur Hinchcliffe, who is to be found at the Winton; Harry Fosdick, whose time is spent in skipping from the Hupmobile to the Jones and Alvan T. Fuller, who is at the Packard.

Other men located at exhibits are: J. E. Johnson, Buick; Joseph Donovan and George Jordan, Studebaker; Henry N. Pyke, Cadillac; Otto Lawton, Franklin; A. P. Hawes, Locomobile; A. H. Sowers, Jackson; V. A. Charles, Marmon; A. L. Snow, Peerless; J. M. Linscott, Reo; W. C. Sills and O. G. Vincent, Chevrolet; J. W. Maguire, Pierce-Arrow; George Reed, Detroiter; Albion L. Danforth, Cadillac; R. B. Nettleton and George Crittendon, Chandler; Sherwood Hall, Jr., Paige; Carl Spiegelberg, Metz; F. A. Durton, Abbott-Detroit; C. A. Henshaw, Dodge; C. P. Rockwell, Jeffery; George Canterbury, Simplex; R. I. Wade and F. A. Gilmore, Lozier; Conrad Smith, Cole; L. B. Sanders, Oakland; L. E. Hashaway, White; W. Bowman and John Gormley, Case; H. R. Ross, Flat; R. E. Taylor, Willys-Knight; C. D. Sachs, Gray & Schaff; P. L. Hawley, King; George H. Lawrence and F. H. Holmes, Kissel Kar; Frank E. Crockett, Knox; F. E. Wing, Marmon; F. H. Lucas, Mitchell and Maxwell; F. A. Hart, National; W. J. Connell and J. L. McKone, Overland; P. R. Curtis, Speedwell; M. F. Chase, Stutz; and F. E. Rhoddield of the Velie.

SOME OF THE CARS.

In the big car class, which has always been a particularly attractive one, the Pierce-Arrow company is making an exhibit of the six-cylinder that for years has been considered as among the leaders in American cars. The great improvement in the Pierce car is the use of what might be termed a drop frame, which has materially altered the appearance of the vehicle. The substitution of pressure gasoline feed for gravity feed and the simplification of the control levers, such as the steering wheel, the throttle, and spark lever, really enhance the only changes in this line. One thing which is familiar to the Pierce car is the locking of the ignition switch by the removal of the handle from the lock on the bonnet. The Pierce line is as well-known that, as F. W. Maguire says, "it sells itself."

The Packard company is exhibiting in two six-cylinder chassis, on which a great variety of bodies are mounted. A slight change in appearance has been made by the adoption of the double type head lamps with a similar lamp for city driving beneath the main lamp and a few slight changes in body lines. The main points that have made Packard famous and its great attention to detail are most apparent on the models shown here, and the exhibit is among the best in the show.

The Peerless company shows both the four and six-cylinder models in various bodies, both open and closed, including the "All-purpose" four and the small "K" chassis, the larger six, known as the Peerless, is continued with practically no change. Both of the new cars have L-head block motors in unit with the clutch and rear-quarter-elliptic rear spring suspension, which has always been one of the Peerless points, is retained on all models. The open bodies are of the streamline form, the front seats being of the individual arm chair type with a passage between them to the tonneau.

VARIED DISPLAY.

The Stearns-Knight assembly has a more varied one than ever, containing three models—the small and big four, and the six and a chassis on which an unusual number of bodies are mounted. The motor is the same throughout, and in addition to being the lowest-priced Knight-motored car on the market, is 1,000 less in price than any previous Stearns. The motor is block cast and incorporates many characteristic features, among the most important being the counter-balanced crank shaft.

One particularly noticeable thing about the Locomobile exhibit is that all models are equipped with the left-hand drive. This is virtually the only change in construction, as a single electric light and starting system with special push button control has been adopted.

Sport Questions and Answers

Sporting Editor, Boston AMERICAN:
Kindly publish in your "Question Column" what the B. A. A. will charge for tickets to the amateur boxing tournament which it is going to hold in Mechanics Building in January 26.
HARRY B.

The tickets for the show will be $1 and $2. The $1 tickets will entitle you to a seat in the gallery or in the rear of the floor seats. The $2 seats will be on the floor and close to the ring.

Sporting Editor, Boston AMERICAN:
Please decide the following dispute:
A claims that if Matty Baldwin had received the referees' decision over Freddy Welsh in their recent bout at the Mechanics' Building he would be entitled to be considered the lightweight champion.
B contends that Baldwin would have had to secure a knockout over Welsh to be considered champion.
J. J.

A's claim is the best. The bout between Welsh and Baldwin was not strictly a championship affair, as the contest was at catchweights. Welsh weighed between 138 and 140 pounds, while Baldwin scaled close to 135 pounds. It has been held that a champion cannot lose his title in a match which is not fought at the regular weight for his class. This theory has been discarded of late and if Baldwin had received the decision over Welsh he would have been hailed as the king of the lightweights and it would take Welsh and a German army corps to take the championship away from him.

Sporting Editor, Boston AMERICAN:
What beat has the welter champion record division in the Chelsea district of the Suburban League? What can it touch and what did it touch it?
J. J.

Revere of the Suburban League was the former title holder. He record was 1,712 and it smashed the mapies for this total on December 19, 1913.

Now, Rollo dear, set 'em up again.

Sporting Editor, Boston AMERICAN:
I would like to be informed as to when Abner Baker, the Boston boxer, last fought in the Boston Arena.
DICK.

Baker will display his wonderful speed and ability as a hockey player at the Arena on January 16 when he will play for the St. Nicholas Club of New York in a game against the B. A. A.

Sporting Editor, Boston AMERICAN:
Is Eddie Root riding in the Buffalo six-day race?
HAROLD.

The old boy is evidently in again but we are always willing to answer an honest question on sport. Root is riding in the Buffalo grind and is teamed up with Iver Lawson.

Will you kindly decide that Frank Foord established a world's roller skating record for five miles? Frank claims that he did.
J. J. Mahoney.

G. H. Weston, the former manager of the Paris rink in East Boston, informs us that C. O. Walton holds the world's record of 30m. 5s. for five miles, established at the Brooklyn rink on January 16, 1888. That race was for the world's championship, and Walton, by winning the race, won the only diamond championship belt ever put up for a championship roller skating race. The belt was offered by the Turf, Field and Farm, a New York sporting publication.

Bill Up Today to Legalize Boxing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 6.—The first move to bring about legalized boxing in the State of Illinois will be made today when a bill patterned after the measures which permit the sport in the States of Wisconsin and New York will be introduced by Edward Santry, who a little more than a decade ago was one of the best featherweight boxers in the world. He was elected to the Legislature last November.

Dodgers to Train at Daytona Five Years

President Charles Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Nationals, announced upon his return from Florida that he had signed a five-year lease with the Daytona Athletic Association for the use of the new baseball park. The clubhouse at Daytona will contain a dressing room and thirty lockers, five shower compartments, a steam boiler and cold bathing tables, etc. Manager Robinson plan to have all of his men in Daytona not later than March 2.

Capt. Journeay Will Be Back with Penn

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Albert Journeay, last year's captain of the football team at Pennsylvania, says he is coming back to school next Fall to take a post-graduate course.

He is a senior in the Wharton school this year and will be graduated in June. Journeay was picked by most of the critics as the popular choice for all-American centre. He is the mainstay of the secondary defense all year and his playing was conspicuous all through the games.

Harvard Track Men Meeting Tonight

To Cure Catarrh Purify the Blood

Reason it Out, Where Does it Start the Mucus From?

Innumerable catarrh sufferers have cured themselves of purifying their blood with S. S. S. Catarrh often invades the entire system before it makes itself known by passages. It becomes so chronic and extensive that the stomach, liver, kidneys, bronchial tubes and most of the glands are involved without such serious conditions being realized. Catarrh may be the result of some serious blood trouble of former years, and this is only one of the many peculiar effects of impure blood. Now S. S. S., in its influence upon the mucous surfaces, causes these catarrhal secretions to be changed or converted into a substance easily, quickly and naturally ejected from the body. S. S. S. changes this mucus that it is not the raspy, scorching stuff that plugs the nose, chokes the throat, causes severe throat trouble, upsets the stomach and continually clogs the food passages. Because of it is often difficult to convince catarrh sufferers that chronic nasal catarrh, hawking, fetid breath and other symptoms are only the local evidence of deep seated trouble. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today and try it. You will get good results, real benefit and soon be aware of a gradual cleaning up and a check to the progress and ravages of catarrh. TYLER-WHITTED IN MAGEE TRADE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—The Philadelphia Nationals today traded Sherwood Magee, becomes a member of the Boston team for waivers, the Phillies getting two players and a sum of money.

The Boston players who will figure in the trade are Whitted, outfielder of St. Louis, who came to the outfield and batted over the .300 mark, scoring 80 runs in 100 games, and Tyler, a pitcher, who was with Cleveland last season.

In Whitted they will have a capable man to replace Joe Riddle should he be sold, and his hitting would help along the attack, which will suffer some by the absence of Magee and Lobert.

If either of these players balk at coming to Philadelphia, it is possible that some more pending will be made.

With Stock to spare, also in place of Lobert, the Phillies are in need of a first baseman and batsman.

Cardinals Look for Perritt to Return

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—Officials of the St. Louis National league club today said that the alleged dispute between Pol Perritt, the pitcher who jumped the Cardinals for the Feds, and Manager Huggins of the Pittsburgh Nationals, would not prevent the former from returning to return with organized baseball.

If he believed his own attitude would be misunderstood, Perritt, it is said, would be asked to have fractured statements sent either to Pittsburgh or Cincinnati, where the two sections of organized baseball are meeting here.

Why My Wife Left Me

No. 5—The Man with an Evil Temper Tells How He Killed Marital Love

By DOROTHY DIX

"I LIKED my wife from the first time I met her, because I was a grouch and because I thought that home was a dumping ground for all of the ill temper and surliness that a man doesn't dare visit upon the outside world.

"It's tragical and humorous, isn't it, that the people we love the best we treat with the least consideration, and that the affection we value most we put the severest strain upon? Looking back now upon the wreck of my happiness I can see that if I had shown to my wife one tithe of the politeness and deference and the gallantry that I did to any one of my women clients I should have made of our married life a success instead of the failure that it was.

"When I married Annie she was a pretty, bright, light hearted girl, fond of the gay things of life, but sensible and practical, and willing to do her part in the matrimonial partnership. She was a good housekeeper, a thrifty manager, but not one of the sort of women who reeks of butcher's bills and domesticity, for she had all sorts of outside interests. In short she was the kind of woman who makes not only a good wife, but a good chum, if her husband lets her.

"Now, I am nervous and irritable by nature, and in those first years of our married life I was overworking, straining every nerve almost to the breaking point to get a solid foothold in my profession. This made me still more nervous and irritable, and in vulgar parlance, I took it out upon my innocent and unoffending wife.

PLEASANT TO HIS CLIENTS

"I realized that in my dealings with my law partners I had to be self-controlled and reasonable. I knew that I had to turn a suave and smiling face upon our clients. I endured not flash out angry and sarcastic speeches upon the outside world, but I could see no reason for making myself pleasant and agreeable at home, nor was there anything to prevent my making cruel speeches to my wife.

"She was my property. She belonged to me. She had to stand whatever treatment I accorded her. She couldn't knock me down for an insulting speech as a man would have done, nor could she pick up and leave as would a servant to whom I had been offensive.

"Of course, I didn't think out these cowardly arguments at the time, but they were there subconsciously in my mind as they are in the mind of every other grouchy husband who takes advantage of his position as a husband to treat his wife worse than he does any menial he employs.

"So I became a domestic Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Out in the world I was celebrated as being a good fellow among women. Women praised my gallantry and told my wife how they envied her being married to a man who had such charming compliments, and who was so gentle and attentive to women. I was also much esteemed as a dinner guest, because of my geniality and wit and my inexhaustible fund of good stories.

"And these people who found me so amiable in public never even guessed that in private I was as surly as a sore headed bear, and that I divested myself of my good manners at my own door even as I took off my hat.

"I had wooed my wife with tender words and gentle consideration and fiery ardor, else she had not married me, and I can well remember her hurt bewilderment when, soon after we were married, I dropped the mask and let her see the unlovely side of my nature. Something had gone wrong at the office, and I came home seething with the fury I had had to keep suppressed all day.

HE INSULTS HIS WIFE

"Annie came joyously to meet me, bubbling over with some little plan she had made. I don't know yet why I did it, for she had done nothing to provoke me. Perhaps it was because a mean soul has a kind of joy in hurting anyone in its power, just as a brute kicks around his dog, but I turned on my wife with a torrent of abuse that made her shrink away from me as from a madman.

"And that was the beginning. The bars were down then. Poor little Annie became the escape valve for my temper and nerves. Whatever knocks the outside world banded me I passed on to her. If rich Mrs. Smith tried my patience I went home with a scowl on my face that made my wife afraid to speak to me. If I lost a case I took out my chagrin by making bitter and sarcastic speeches to my wife. If one of my partners called my attention to a mistake I had made, he got it blasted Annie with my withering criticisms.

"There were days and days in which I indulged myself in sullen grouches in which I would not speak to her except to return an irritable answer to some question. There were times when I raged like a lunatie over the merest trifle that had gone wrong. There were other times when I stabbed her to the heart with cruel speeches—and the pity of it all is that I didn't know what I was doing. I didn't even realize that it should have been less of a brute if I had beaten her physically than I was to continually flay her with my tongue.

"Still less did I realize that I was murdering love. I thought in my masculine egotism that a woman went on adoring her husband no matter how he treated her. I know better now, for one day Annie left me.

"'Even a worm will turn,' she said. 'I have stood your abuse as long as I can, and I am going away where I shall at least receive civility from those with whom I am associated.' In a passion of remorse I told her of my love and my repentance, but it was too late. She had come to hate me with the concentrated bitterness with which a woman only hates the man that she has loved."

Do You Know That—

A chemist in Belgium, by taking the albumen from the gluten of wheat grains and putting it through a process, has developed a tasteless food, claimed to taste like meat, but with three times as much nourishment. The cost of the food is said to be small. Physicians in Brussels have experimented on men with it, and with excellent results.

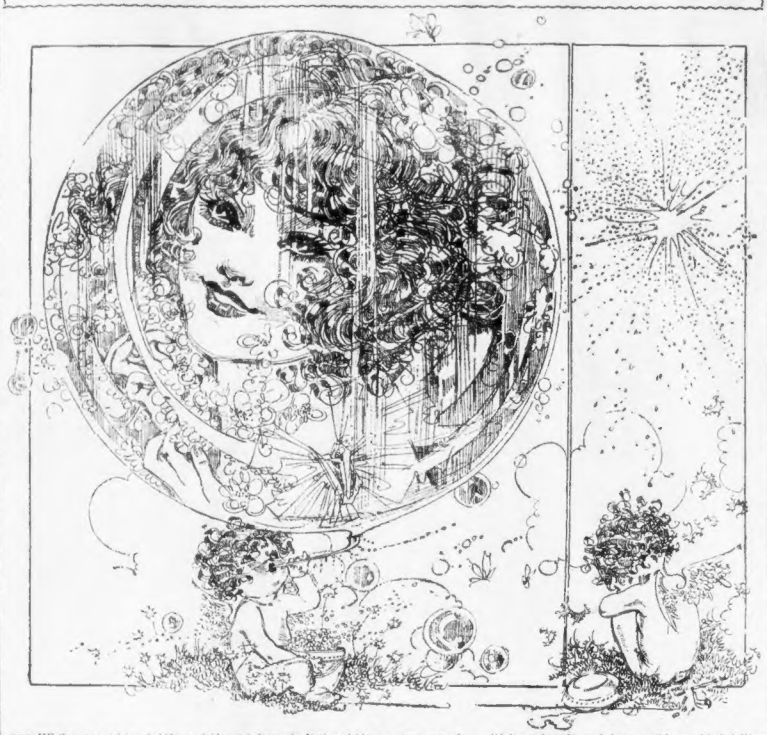
A scarecrow of the ordinary type placed in Mr. Howard Wilson's cornfields at Marmette, Wis., having failed to frighten the birds, was replaced by a feminine figure with a low-necked blouse, silk skirt and plumed hat. Crows have now ceased to haunt the locality.

"A Bursten Bubble"

(The Summer Girl)

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service



THE Summer girl is a bubble, an iridescent dream in froth and blossoms, like pink and white snow—and the bubble is burst—the dream is faded and the pink and white snow is melted weeks ago. Dan sat for four sweet months on the highest hill, with his bowl of maskin's on his padded knees, and blew the Summer-girl bubble into the warm air to the surprise of the blue and gold butterflies and the destruction of vacationist hearts—and he liked that!

But all of a sudden a chill came over the world—Summer shuddered her bare shoulders and looked to the north—the elves began to kindle fires under the tree roots (and that's where the blue haze of Indian Summer came from—didn't you know?)—and down on things whistled King Frost and he thrust at the bubble that Dan was swelling so big—so big—at the bubble of the Summer girl that throbbed and swam with a thousand thrilling colors, that gleamed and sparkled and clung to Dan's clay pipe—and snick! it went—in a million drops, a tiny shower of vanishing jewels—and the Summer-girl bubble of Dan's prideful making was gone into thin air.

A bursted bubble—It is that—the dream of a Summer girl that was. And Dan has broken his clay pipe and kicked over his bowl and bended his gilded head on his knees and—the Winter wind is a whistling through his wings and the dry leaves whirl.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Sailors of Feathered Race

The "Stormy Petrel" Centre of Ocean Romance

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE romance of the sea is in the very name of the "stormy petrel," and the bird itself is a great sailor, possessing the characteristic mark of the true mariner, which is that the harder the wind blows, and the fiercer the rush of the waves becomes, the more completely at home it seems to be.

The petrels are related to the albatrosses, but are smaller, and owe their name to a peculiar circumstance—a play of the nautical imagination induced by their appearance on the water. They skim so close along the surface as to give the impression that they are actually gliding upon it. This suggested to some fanciful observer the thought of St Peter walking upon the waves, and so the name of "petrel," meaning "little Peter," was bestowed upon the bird. This, at least, is the explanation of the origin of the name commonly given.

Petrels are also called by sailors "Mother Carey's chickens," and their appearance is regarded as presaging the near approach of a storm. The explanation of the origin of the name "Mother Carey" is so fantastical as that of the name "petrel." It is said to be an English rendering of the exclamation of Italian sailors upon seeing these ominous birds at sea, "Maria cara!" meaning "Dear Mother Mary!"

There are about seventy-five species of petrels known, and they are widely distributed over the oceanic parts of the globe. In their habits they are almost as much marine animals as are fish, for they never voluntarily visit the land except during the breeding season, and the wildest storms cannot drive them off the ocean. They skim swiftly along the agitated surface of a tempest-swept sea, following the changing curvature of the waves, safely defying the breaking crests and the flying spume, and seeming to rejoice in the uproar of the elements.

In the darkness of a great storm, when ships' masts are bowed to meet the tossing waves and canvas is torn from the shrouds by the howling gale, the petrel will sometimes flit about a doomed vessel like a malignant spirit of the storm. Among sailors it is deemed to be a very unlucky act to kill one of these birds, even by accident.

The commonest species of petrel seen on the Atlantic is a little black bird, with white rump, about six inches in length. It will occasionally follow ships for days, picking up food from the refuse thrown overboard. It seems never to tire, however long it may be kept upon the wing. Owing to the extreme oiliness of its feathers, they are impenetrable to water, and the bird can rest upon the undulating waves as lightly as a cork.

The stormy petrel remains a mysterious bird even when it visits the borders of the sea for breeding purposes. Its nests are always hidden among rocks close along the coast, and are very difficult of discovery, even by professional egg-hunters. The more effectually to conceal their breeding places the petrels, while sojourning on shore, go out in search of food only at night, or in dark, gloomy and stormy weather.

The famous Scilly Islands near the British coast, which have been the scene of so many ship tragedies, are a favorite breeding ground of the stormy petrel. Until recently it was thought that all the nests were contained on one site in the Scillies, but it has been found that they are much more widely scattered than anyone had suspected, and the discovery is due to a voracious cat, which, being an inhabitant of the lighthouse on Round Island, where petrels were never seen on land, astonished the keepers by furnishing itself each night with a petrel for its supper. Investigation showed that the cat had found a breeding-place of the birds on the island, the existence of which was previously unknown.

Buying Presents for Men

A Practice Which All Girls Ought to Avoid

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"I KNOW a young lady to whom a young man has been paying attention for some time. I am anxious to know whether it is proper for her to buy several ties for him. They are not engaged, and the young man has never given her a present," writes Arline.

And I answer with fervor: Merciful Heavens! Of what is the girl of today thinking? She hasn't the question, the simple honesty, the economic independence or the sanction of custom to justify her in marching up to the man she admires and asking him quietly and cheerily to be her beau or accepting her heart and hand. And she has lost the coy and alluring sweetness of her grandmother's day.

She balances precariously between the determined and independent seeking of what she wants (which may be her's some day), and the charming elusiveness of olden days. And between future proposing and past receiving she runs away from a proposal, she tacks awkwardly and ungracefully, neither quite daring to come out and ask for what she wants, nor yet knowing how to invite invitation for herself.

But of all the awkward manoeuvres of which the girl of today is guilty, none is more wantonly stupid than the habit of giving presents to men.

It ought to annoy a self-respecting man to have even a girl to whom he has given gifts seek to make a return in kind. It surely must humiliate and offend, refused to leave his post.

For, according to the military rules, a sentry can only be relieved either by the sergeant in charge of the sentry work or by the Czar himself, and the sergeant was dead the soldier was bound to remain at his post until he was ordered to return to the barracks by the Czar. Accordingly an express telegram was sent by the colonel in command to the Czar, who immediately wired back an order to the sentry to leave his post. It was not until the man read this telegram by the light of an electric lamp that the sentry allowed himself to be relieved.

Well Disciplined

An interesting story showing the spirit of discipline in the Russian army is reported from Nijni Novgorod. Accordingly an order to the sentry to leave his post. It was not until the telegram by the light of an electric lamp that the sentry allowed himself to be relieved.

The Fortunes of Fanny

Fanny Has a Tilt with Her Landlady and Her Rent Is Raised

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

SHE had effectually concealed her mental suffering, Fanny Hadden told herself, when she at last reached her own room. It was dark here, yet she did not light the gas. Sinking down upon her one chair she buried her face in her hands. The room swam around her.

She tried to remember the pleasant events of the past few hours, tried to forget the two figures she had seen on the steps of the theatre and the sentence she had heard spoken by the woman who knew them both; tried hardest of all to thrust from her mind the recollection of the hasty kiss that Crandall had given her as he helped her home a few nights ago. But that kiss and the experiences of the past hour haunted and hounded her.

When Fanny and Grace had extricated themselves from the theatre throng they found Nellie and Helen awaiting them on the corner. With them was a young man whom Helen introduced as her cousin.

"He was up in the peanut gallery," she explained, "and saw us, but the crowd was so fierce he couldn't get to us. He wanted to meet you, Fanny."

The man lifted his hat at the introduction, smiling frankly. "Helen seems to think that because I'm her cousin you'll know my last name is the same as hers," he said. "And it is—I'm Joseph Brown."

"Joseph,'" Helen scoffed. "He's just Joe Brown, Fanny."

"I'm glad to meet you," Fanny heard herself saying. If she could only get away and be alone! "I'm tired, girls," she continued. "I'm going home."

"Don't!" Nellie begged. "We're all going to our flat and have doughnuts and cider. Joe'll come, too—won't you, Joe?"

"Sure!" he agreed joyously. "We'll have a real jolly Christmas evening."

"But my head aches," Fanny protested, "and I must go home." She laid her hand on Nellie's with a warning pressure. "I MUST go, Nell," she reiterated.

There is a telegraphic or telephathic means of communication between women, and Nellie answered Fanny's unspoken appeal.

"All right," she agreed. "You can go home—only if you feel better later come on down to the flat."

FANNY REFUSES THE ESCORT OF JOE

"I'd like to call at your house for you," Joe suggested eagerly.

"Oh, no, thank you!" Fanny demurred.

"Let her alone, Joe," Nellie ordered. With feminine intuition she felt that Fanny's present wish was to be rid of her companions. "If she changes her mind later, she'll come by herself." Then, as she kissed her friend good night, she warmheartedly gave Fanny opportunity to ask a question.

"Are you going to see HIM, Fan—whoever he is?"

Fanny's face grew a shade whiter. "NO!" she exclaimed shortly. "NO!"

Yet now that she was here in her own room what could she do? The solitariness was worse than the presence of her chattering companions had been. Springing up, she tore off her furs and tossed them on the bed, but a moment later she buried her face in her muff as she had done that morning.

She wished she could cry—but she couldn't. She almost wished she could die. That Crandall married! He couldn't be true! There had been so much noise in the street by the theatre during the time that the patient, overworked cab horses and automobiles sounding their horns unnight and day have been mistaken in the sentence she thought she had understood? She lied to herself desperately. She would hear it from his own lips before she would believe it!

The necessity of action of some kind was upon her. Lighting the gas, she took off her coat and hat and put them away, then she laid the neckpiece and muff in the box in which they had come. She had just done this when a knock sounded on her door. At her summons to "Come in" her landlady entered.

"Good evening, Miss Hedden," the harsh voice said. "I suppose it is not too late to wish you a Merry Christmas?"

"Oh, no," faltered Fanny. "I wish you one, too. Won't you sit down?"

She pushed forward the chair and sank upon the edge of the bed. Something in the woman's face made her feel frightened and weak.

"I came," Mrs. Sharpe said, "to speak to you about the room rent that is overdue."

"Oh, yes, I know," Fanny broke in, flushing hotly. "I will pay it on Monday, and next week's rent in advance at the same time. You can count on it."

"I hope so," Mrs. Sharpe rejoined. "I wish you could give it to me now. As tomorrow is Sunday, can't you pay me as well now as you could on Monday?"

SHE PROMISES TO PAY HER RENT MONDAY

"Why—no," Fanny stammered, "for Monday will be my pay day—when I get my salary, you know."

"Oh, I see." The matron's pressed her lips into a hard line. "Might I suggest that it is rather imprudent for a young woman alone in the world to spend each week every penny she earns—so that she has nothing ahead?"

Fanny's temper stirred at the patronizing tone. "Excuse me," she said, "but I think I am the best judge of how my own affairs should be managed."

She regretted the speech as soon as she had made it, for she saw Mrs. Sharpe's eyes flash dangerously.

"Indeed!" the landlady sneered. "Then since you can manage your affairs so well you probably will not mind paying four dollars hereafter for this room—instead of three. It is worth it, especially as I have an offer from another person for it—a person," she added significantly, "who does not stay out until midnight and who has money to pay her rent promptly—even if she does not wear five-dollar bunches of violets and expensive furs. But perhaps she has stolen the money to throw away on such flowers!"

"I'd like to call at your house for you," Joe suggested eagerly.

"Oh, no, thank you!" Fanny demurred.

"Let her alone, Joe," Nellie ordered. With feminine intuition she felt that Fanny's present wish was to be rid of her companions. "If she changes her mind later, she'll come by herself." Then, as she kissed her friend good night, she warmheartedly gave Fanny opportunity to ask a question.

"Are you going to see HIM, Fan—whoever he is?"

Fanny's face grew a shade whiter. "NO!" she exclaimed shortly. "NO!"

Yet now that she was here in her own room what could she do? The solitariness was worse than the presence of her chattering companions had been. Springing up, she tore off her furs and tossed them on the bed, but a moment later she buried her face in her muff as she had done that morning.

She wished she could cry—but she couldn't. She almost wished she could die. That Crandall married! He couldn't be true! There had been so much noise in the street by the theatre during the time that the patient, overworked cab horses and automobiles sounding their horns unnight and day have been mistaken in the sentence she thought she had understood? She lied to herself desperately. She would hear it from his own lips before she would believe it!

The necessity of action of some kind was upon her. Lighting the gas, she took off her coat and hat and put them away, then she laid the neckpiece and muff in the box in which they had come. She had just done this when a knock sounded

When the Blow Fell

A young married lady one morning gave her husband a sealed letter, which he was to read when he got to his office. He did so, and the letter ran as follows:

"I am obliged to tell you something that may give you pain, but there is no help for it. You shall know everything, whatever be the consequences. For the last week I have felt that I must come to this, but I have waited until the last extremity, and can reach it no longer. I have no one whom I can advise with, no one whom I can ask for help, but myself. I must decide for myself."

A cold perspiration stood in thick drops on the brow of the husband, who was prepared for the worst. Trembling, he read on:

"Our coal is gone. Please order a ton to be sent this afternoon. I thought you might forget it for the tenth time, and therefore wrote you this letter."

But he didn't forget it that time.

Many Novelties on Franklin Sq. Theatre Program

Patrons of the new Franklin Park Theatre will find plenty of good, wholesome entertainment in the distinctly novel bill offered for the first half of this week. The program is headed by little Marion Weeks, acclaimed as the greatest juvenile entertainer appearing on the vaudeville stage. The Nine Melody Boys have a diversified, up-to-date entertainment in a musical skit entitled "Five o'Clock Cabaret," while Ethel Elkins, singing violinist, and Harrison and Cumberland, song and dance artists, which complete the remainder of the vaudeville, pleased immensely. The picture program is topped by "The Country Mouse," a four-part Famous Players production with Hobart Bosworth and Adele Farrington in the leading parts.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases

Both air and water appear to have a bad effect upon skin diseases like eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do, by using Cadine, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, air and water are excluded, because Cadine contains petrolatum and white wax, and these form a tight covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cadine also contains oil of eucalyptus, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a box of Cadine of your druggist and try it. The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size and is cheaper to buy.

BESSIE CLAYTON STAR AT KEITH'S

It's a breezy, up-to-the-minute Broadway bill at Keith's this week, headed by Bessie Clayton, assisted with her own "first-time" orchestra of the new banjos-drum-violins-piano school. Miss Clayton's twinkling toes are internationally famous, but this year she has several new and syncopated dances which fairly take one's breath away. And her shuffle dance on her toes is "some" dance.

Conroy and La Maire, the blackface comedians, late stars of "The Passing Show of 1914," have an absurdity involving around the mysteries of invisible ink and fly paper.

Alberta Moore and Myrtle Vosse, two very pretty modern young women who look like Gibson Girl Melodious Chaps make lively, snappy music out of two pianos and drums, while the fourth man sings, dances and gladdens are a young man and woman with a song and dance. All three of these acts are of the super-cabaret order — lot of action and fun set to music.

There is a most unusual act—"A Telephone Tangle." Regal sits at a telephone switchboard and mixes up six lines with exciting results. The various people whose lines are crossed are stunning. Do you ever telephone? Then don't miss the sketch.

Alice Teddy is a good-natured looking 200-pound bear who roller skates, walks up a pair of stairs on her roller-skated feet, and has a good-naturedly wrestles a young man.

The war pictures are good.

Boston Theatre.

Charles K. Harris' world-wide success, "After the Ball," presented by Mr. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon, surrounded by an all-star cast, is the attraction at the Boston Theatre for one week only. This is the first appearance on the screen of two of America's foremost dramatic stars. "After the Ball," made by the Photo-Drama Company, Inc., is in six parts and several hundred scenes. It introduces some of the greatest death-defying thrills ever pictured.

In one, Barney McPhee, a daring young actor, makes a dive from High Bridge into the Harlem River, a plunge of 136 feet, and in another scene, a daring motorcycle policeman leaps from his machine to a fast moving express train, while a big horse race, a train wreck, and many other stupendous "thrillers" combine to make "After the Ball" one of the really great pictures of the year. In the excellence of its cast, and the careful attention to detail, the greatest care has been shown.

Loew's Globe.

Marcus Loew has made good his promise in presenting to his Globe patrons Singer's Midgets, declared to be the world's greatest vaudeville act. This organization consists of twenty perfect little people, also seven ponies, four dogs, a monkey and five attendants. Their work was marvelous, and they offered six complete vaudeville acts, occupying the stage for fully an hour. Others to appear were Harold Crane & Company, in the dramatic playlet, "Salvation," and those two popular Bostonians, Armstrong & Clarke, in their original singing and pianologue offering. Armstrong & Clarke are the composers of "Sweet Adaline."

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded, streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply moisten a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Advertisement.

'DIPLOMACY' AT HOLLIS STREET

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

One of the most interesting plays ever written for the theatre is Sardou's "Diplomacy," which has survived all the dramas and his harrowing tragedies, though Puccini has immortalized his "Tosca."

"Diplomacy" is one of the few that every generation, which can be given in a modern setting without changing the disposition of the characters in its situations or dialogue. It is one of the few modern masterpieces, and when it comes to the Hollis Street Theatre with a cast which includes William Gillette, Blanche Bates and Marie Doro, we must mark the date in red on our calendar.

The theatre was packed last night and the applause was long and loud, and it remains to be seen how it will stand up on several occasions, which it should have done.

Sardou was the greatest of modern French dramatists. He had a marvelous instinct for what would act across the footlights. He was a sensationalist, a melodramatist, and generally his theatrical situations were inexcusable in the cold light of reason, only there was an time to season while a Sardou play was going on. It was too exciting. He was a blood-and-thunder writer. He wrote to the measure of Sarah Bernhardt many times, but he always delivered a good fit.

GILLETTE AND BATES.

"Diplomacy" is in many respects his greatest play, because he succeeded in uniting his dramatic power to your attention from the rise of the curtain, and never let it flag for an instant until the final curtain fell. He did this without resort to murder, suicide, dishonor or any other sensational situation.

In "Diplomacy," a sweet young girl marries, but through one of the circumstances she is suspected of being a spy and selling the secrets confided to her husband by the official of the British Embassy in Paris. There is a dashing adventurer who spins the web, and an elder brother of the diplomat who unweaves it and shows the treachery of the villain and wife. William Gillette, lured back from retirement, plays the brother, a part a bit suggestive of Sherlock Holmes, only it was written before Sherlock was created.

The adventuress is in the experienced hands of Blanche Bates, and the young wife is charmingly portrayed by Marie Doro. The remainder of the company is made up of two prominent exceptions, is a remarkably good one.

Gillette, in this piece, plays himself, thinly veiled by English mannerisms and dialect, and Gillette is a very striking and forceful personality, a master of the stage and himself, a most sympathetic character in this play.

Blanche Bates has been cast as the Countess Zicka, a Russian adventuress and the original lady of the piece, a part which could only be spoiled by theatricalism, but Miss Bates makes it live as one of the most vivid character impersonations that I have seen for a long time. Her accent and musical quality of voice and students of dramatic art are recommended to see her last act, in which she is gradually reduced from jaunty confidence to fear, shame and discretion by the overwhelming revelations of Gillette as Beauclerc.

MISS DORO INGENUE.

Miss Doro is the same sweet ingenue of yore, with the added natural pictures to her various gowns, charming in the lighter scenes, and unconvincing in the big emotional moments.

Montagu Love as Count Orloff has a very excellent part, and Charles Tharp as Algie, the junior clerk, does some fine comedy work. The lead was played by Elliott Dexter in a fashion not as pleasing as one might have wished. Mr. Dexter is a good mother-in-law, old good work and so did Gustav von Seyffertitz and Mallise Sheridan.

Plays That Remain.

PLYMOUTH—Judging from the size and enthusiasm of last night's audience at Plymouth, Thomas W. Ross one would be led to believe that Cyril Maude, the prominent English actor, appearing in his great dramatic success, "Grumpy," was just beginning his first week instead of into the ninth week of his engagement.

COPLEY THEATRE—"Peg o' My Heart," which duly established another long run in Boston, will have played almost a year at the Copley Theatre when the engagement closes Saturday night, January 16. The company will go to Philadelphia, the only city in America that has not laughed and cried with "Peg," and enjoyed the whimsical antics of Cyril Tripatree.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—The Henry Jewett Players continue to present at the Boston Opera House their truly remarkable productions of Shakespeare's "As You Like It." This company has been declared on all sides to be a most excellent one, and while is displaying a liking for the classic drama at popular prices, evidently is not encouraging.

YE WILBUR — That whirlwind farce success, "Potash & Perlmutter," its second week at Ye Wilbur Theatre, with another crowded attendance last night. Not a single person departed from the very start the little theatre has been completely filled with the happy-go-lucky audience.

COLONIAL—This week and next are all that remain for the engagement of "The Girl from Utah," at the Colonial Theatre, and it is evident that Boston will not tire of it, for the production, which has duplicated here the success which it made in New York.

TREMONT—Boston has been specially interested in Fannie Ward and Baldpate," which began its second week at the Tremont Theatre last evening because it was a clever novel which George M. Cohan dramatized, was Earl Derr Biggers, a former Boston newspaper man. The piece is called a mystery farce on the program, but it is filled with many thrilling melodrama and screaming comedy enough to equip a dozen ordinary entertainments.

'Kindling' Offering This Week at the Castle Square

"Kindling," a three-act drama by Charles Kenyon, was presented by the Craig Players last night at the Castle Square Theatre. The theme is built around a poor young woman, an expectant mother, who steals for means to go to the country, where she could only better enjoy beautiful surroundings rather than a dingy tenement house.

The play contains much food for thought. It is indeed serious and but for the many really funny things that Kate Ryan says as Mrs. Bates the play would be a bit gloomy.

Mary Young displayed acting that was acting in the truest sense of the word. Her scenes of emotions were the daily fare. Dudley Harlow, as Steve, a typical back side "wise boy," acted his part in fine style. The work of Wilbur Hartley, as Mr. Bates, husband, was splendid. Miss Marion Tanner, who was interested in slum work, played her part in a most winning manner.

Mabel Colcord as Mrs. Burke-Smith, did splendidly, as did Al Roberts in his clever impersonations of one or two men from headquarters.

Park Theatre.

"The Girl of the Golden West," another beautiful Lasky-Belasco "Paramount Pictures" photoplay production heads the new program at the Park Theatre this week. The picturization of "The Girl of the Golden West," presenting such well known stage celebrities as Hazel Van Buren, Theodore Roberts and Tom Forman, is the leading feature, is of especial interest, not only because of the world wide fame of the Belasco dramatic production which played the distinction of being turned into a motion picture, but also because it is the most noted works of Puccini, but because of its essential and special photoplay qualities.

The production proves to have the same rare excellence of appeal for screen presentation as for the stage and the more complete exposition possible through the medium of the motion picture camera makes the story even more picturesque and thrilling.

Harmonizing with this excellent headliner, the Park program also features a number of other interesting and amusing short subject motion pictures and the Park Symphonic Orchestra under the direction of Charles Frank, will also present some rare and the Celebrated Austin Organ.

Grand Opera House.

Fun of the bright sort reigns at the Grand Opera House this week where the Monte Carlo Girls Burlesque is seen. Yesterday every girl from principal to chorus girl was given an ovation. The show is one of the best on the circuit and introduces as the principal comedian Harry Hastings, who supports well the role of "The Detective." The girl who always has a pleasing personality and charming personality was Eva Sullivan. Hilly Morrissey sang several songs with good effect and Cecil Cheshire and a big chorus group of twenty-five girls joined in all the musical specialties and also danced themselves into popular favor.

Howard Athenaeum.

There is a burlesque show this week at the Howard Athenaeum that is proving a winner in these dismal days, charming girls with the City Belles Company found themselves popular favorites from the first night's curtain. Charley Brown and Sam Green divided honors as the principal funny chaps and Mabel Roberts and Mae Brown were two clever girls who displayed marked ability as real artists.

MANTELL SEEN IN 'KING LEAR'

Shakespeare's "King Lear" has been compared with Michael Angelo's Moses, both standing as the most splendid examples of the highest art of great masters. To act successfully, therefore, the part of Lear requires something of the same dignity and supreme endeavor as the master author gave to the play.

That Robert Mantell, at the Majestic, brought to the part power, sympathy, and a deep insight into a character over which literary critics have seldom agreed, is no slight praise.

The several scenes in which madness first approaches and like a flood of storm breaks the dykes of reason, overflowing with a wild burst of uncontrolled passion, stand as the most impressive bits of acting.

The death of the king, with his beloved daughter, Cordelia, played most successfully by the beautiful Miss Genevieve Hamper, brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed the closing scene.

No better fool has been seen in Boston than that portrayed by Guy Lindsley, who accomplished some difficult acting.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is the direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity.

In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

Bispham Concert at Tremont Temple

David Bispham and Myrna Sharlow will be heard in concert in Tremont Temple Thursday evening. Mr. Bispham has not given a concert in Boston for several years, but he is still remembered as one of the greatest baritones ever on the Metropolitan Opera House. Miss Sharlow is one of the best known members of the Boston Opera House Company. She is making her only appearance in Boston this season. The program will be very popular in character, and the prices of seats are also popular, like all of Tremont Temple concert course events.

Women Should Be in the Lobbies at Washington EVERY DAY

They Should Impress Upon Public Men Women's Determination to Be Recognized

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

Women will get the vote all over the United States soon.

They should get it QUICKLY.

They should go to Washington and demand of the men who run the Government that they shall recognize that half of the population THAT CREATES THE CITIZENS OF THE REPUBLIC.

Women should be every day and every hour in the lobbies at Washington.

They should say to every Senator and to every Congressman, "You believe in woman's votes, or you don't. You are willing to admit that your mother is your political equal, or you are not.

"If you are willing to admit that your mother is as good as you are, let her and the mothers of other men vote. If you do not believe in woman's equality, say so, AND WE'LL WORK TO GET RID OF YOU AND PUT YOU AT SOMETHING MORE FITTED TO YOUR INTELLIGENCE THAN MAKING LAWS."

Young women, earnest and good looking, older women, intelligent, experienced AND BETTER LOOKING because they are more intelligent, should be in the lobbies at Washington every day. They should buttonhole Congressmen and say to them, "You are used to the lobbyist who comes here dishonestly in the name of corporations. Listen to a lobbyist who comes here honestly in the name of women, of mothers and daughters.

"We want recognition of the fact that we are human beings.

"We want you to declare for us or against us.

"We are here to tell you that before you are much older the constituency that sent you here will be no longer made up of men only, but of men AND women. And we warn you that the men who do not work with us NOW will find us against them LATER."

There ought to be a hundred intelligent women lobbying in Washington, talking intelligently and persistently every day. They ought to make a certain number of visits to the White House, and to the Vice-President, and to the judges of the Supreme Court—to impress the truth upon all of them.

Women especially should emphasize one point—for it is a point that will make universal suffrage for women come quickly: THE NUMBER OF CONGRESSMEN SHOULD DEPEND UPON THE NUMBER OF VOTERS. Where the WOMEN vote, the number of Congressmen from the State should be DOUBLED.

Once let it be understood that the States like Illinois, California and others honest and intelligent enough to give women the vote WILL DOUBLE THEIR MEMBERSHIP IN CONGRESS and the other States will quickly fall in line.

If fifty thousand men voters are entitled to one Congressman, then a hundred thousand men and women voters ARE ENTITLED TO TWO CONGRESSMEN.

The State of Illinois having doubled the number of its voters SHOULD DOUBLE THE NUMBER OF ITS CONGRESSMEN.

Let this idea be pushed through, as it can be and must be—equal representation in the national Legislature in proportion to the number of voters—and you will not hear much argument against woman suffrage in the States that have been holding back thus far.

IN THE OFFICE

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

MIST and dawn and sunrise—balsam-scented space,
How my heart would dream of them in this dull gray place!
Keys click all around me; "Orders," "Beg to state,"
"Carry out instructions," "Shipment cannot wait."
And upon my keyboard low my fingers race—
Notebooks blot from vision balsam-scented space.

Happy factory worker whirring your machine,
You may dream and vision woods and trees of green;
Hands upon your labor, while your heart dares go
Fearlessly a-wandering, since the boss can't know,
But my thoughts are prisoned here on my machine,
Notes and keyboard claim me, tho' the woods are green.

In-Shoots

The young man who has been jilted thinks that all the trouble in the world wears petticoats.

The campaign contribution is often the most surprising of all charities.

Some fools prove it by never changing their minds; others by changing too often.

What we sometimes imagine as an inspiration may be only the call of the fool killer.

We occasionally meet a real statesman who does not know how to roll a cigarette properly.

The political statistician is generally careless with his figures when on the eve of a campaign.

When a man does not want to take a vacation it is a sign that he fears that he will not be missed at the shop.

It is a grave business mistake to put a man of small caliber in a large position.

It is possible for a girl to write poetry without being in love, but it is a dangerous symptom if she does.

If a man is your friend after you have handed him advice, the advice is all right or he is a patient citizen.

Reform waves often carry more foam than driftwood.

The lazy man always has one virtue. He is always patient.

It takes a lot of nerve to tell a fellow that the girl he loves is a fright.

You can sometimes do a man a favor by refusing to loan him money, but he will not appreciate the favor.

All Hope of the Future Is in the Imagination

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"ASSERTS that imagination is nine-tenths of invention; H replies that invention is nine-tenths of imagination. Each admits that he may exaggerate the proportion, but insists upon the general correctness of his view. Which is right?—A. G."

This resembles the old "debating school" poser on which so much argument and eloquence have been expended by sprouting orators and statesmen: "Resolved, that the pleasures of anticipation are greater than those of participation."

Imagination and invention are not expressions having a precise signification, like mathematical terms, but they are words, as Matthew Arnold would say, which "are thrown out at an idea." They express their meaning in a general and often in a variable, or uncertain, manner. This uncertainty, or indefiniteness, of language is the cause of nine-tenths of all disputes and arguments.

As "A" and "B" probably understand them, imagination means the representation in the mind of an end or object which is not at the time being attainable, or not actually existing, while invention signifies the contrivance of ways or means to attain that end or object or to bring it into actual being.

Invention the Servant

Taking the words in this sense, it seems evident that imagination is the master faculty, or the directing force, while invention is its servant, following out its suggestions and depending upon it for guidance.

Professor John Tyndall, whose books are more fascinating, and infinitely more useful, than any novels, says: "Scientific education ought to teach us to see the invisible as well as the visible in nature; to picture with the eye of the mind those operations which entirely elude the eye of the body."

This picturing with the eye of the mind of which Tyndall speaks is imagination, and because he possessed the scientific education in a very high degree he was extraordinarily successful both as an experimenter and as an expositor in science. Yet he was not an inventor in the sense in which Mr. Edison is.

But the latter would undoubtedly put the imagination on as lofty a pedestal as Tyndall did. Our great "wizard of invention" must feel that, at every step in his career, he has been sustained and guided by the power of the imagination. It is the only human faculty that can look into the future, and without a look ahead there can be no advance. But the imagination is not merely a far-sighted pioneer; the inventor who is allured by its pictures and strives after them feels its hand holding his at every step.

Go into a library and read the story of Edison's invention of the incandescent electric lamp or the phonograph, or the kinetoscope, and you will see that the driving force for his mind was always the imagination, or in other words, the power to picture clearly the end or object to be attained. At each advance the imagination went ahead and selected the place for the next nail; then the inventing, or contriving, power drove the nail home.

Imagination Driving Force

To show the supreme importance of the imagination in leading the way to invention let us take a specific instance, such as the kinetoscope. In contriving that wonderful instrument, the basis of all motion picture apparatus, the inventor probably got his first suggestion from the old child's toy in which a series of rude pictures of a running horse were made to blend into a moving view by causing them to pass in swift succession before the eye. Then came the recollection of instantaneous photography, and the imagination pictured, in an instant, what would be the result of similarly combining a series of photographic views of a real moving object. Then the imagination, by its power of combining ideas, struck out the scheme of the kinetoscope, and showed how it could be made. After that the contriving faculty, invention, set to work, and by means of careful experiments produced the actual instrument.

So Marconi and the other inventors of wireless telegraph apparatus began by brooding with their imaginations upon the possibilities involved in combining the far-extending Hertz electric waves with the old system of telegraphic signals.

Inklings and Thinklings

By WEX JONES

Note that an Ohio man is raising chickens with shorter legs. Does he want to spoil musical comedy for the tired business man?

Some Filipinos wanted to start a rebellion on account of higher taxes. Much simpler to follow example of our best people and swear them off.

A censor, like a boob, "is an awful thing." No English papers mention the loss of the Audacious, although all the illustrated weeklies publish pictures of her, with such titles as "The Audacious in heavy weather"; "The Audacious, photographed during recent manoeuvres." Evidently the censor believes a ship is not lost if nobody mentions the loss.

Zero is no temperature.

Puzzling thing, business. Used to hear business was great because railroads had reduced freight rates. Now business is going to boom because the roads have increased their rates to the shipper. May be plain as pie, but we can't get it.

Life's mysteries: Trained animals.

By our own military expert: In the eastern theatre of war the present condition may be expected to continue, unless one side or the other gains some advantage, which would, of course, alter the situation. In the western arena the same conditions exist, and we have no hesitation in making the prophecy concerning the outcome.

From a letter: Regarding your proposal to make Johnnycake more formal by addressing it as John W. Cake, why not change Jimjams to James J. Jams? Also why not call the joker the Joseph Ker?

One thing about a fog—it's never so thick as the persons who talk about it.

THE EARTH

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company

I.

TO build a house, with love for architect,
Ranks first and foremost in the joys of life.
And in a tiny cabin, shaped for two,
The space for happiness is just as great
As in a palace. What a world were this
If each soul born received a plot of ground;
A little plot, whereon a home might rise,
And beauteous green things grow!

We give the dead,
The idle vagrant dead, the Potter's Field;
Yet to the living not one inch of soil.
Nay, we take from them soil, and sun, and air
To fashion slums and hell-holes for the race.
And to our poor we say, "Go starve and die
As beggars die; so gain your heritage."

II.

That was a most uncanny dream; I thought the wraiths of those
Long buried in the Potter's Field, in shredded shrouds arose;
They said, "Against the will of God
We have usurped the fertile sod,
Now will we make it yield."
Oh, but it was a gruesome sight, to see those phantoms toil;
Each to his own small garden bent; each spaded up the soil;
(I never knew Ghosts labored so.)
Each scattered seed, and watched, till lo!
The Graves were opulent.
Then all among the fragrant greens, the silent, spectral train
Walked, as if breathing in the breath of plant, and flower, and grain.
(I never knew Ghosts loved such things;
Perchance it brought back early springs
Before they thought of death.)
"The mothers' milk for living babes; the earth for living hosts;
The clean flame for the un-souled dead." (Oh, strange the word of Ghosts.)
"If we had owned this little spot
In life, we need not lie and rot
Here in a pauper's bed."

The Influence of the Home

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

THERE was a time in our country when the home was the centre of our life. It was the centre socially, religiously, educationally. There was a genuine, beautiful, sincere home life, where the spirit of it was for the interest of all who came within its influence and where the welfare and training of the children was of deep importance.

That this type of home seems to be passing away was spoken of regretfully recently by a man, who is himself the father of a young family, and who realizes the need of a vigorous reconstruction of home life by fathers and mothers. As an optimist he believes that the home influence has suffered only a temporary relapse, but that the present problem that confronts us as a people is to bring back the former efficiency of the home and to reproduce the intense concern that used to be given to children.

* * *

Parents should not be too busy to make home a centre of education and recreation for their children. The father should give as much time and thought to home problems, home interests and pleasures as to other affairs.

While he may have every confidence in the ability of the mother to bring up the children carefully he cannot commit this task solely to her without absolutely neglecting a serious duty. He has no right to excuse himself on the plea of being too much occupied with business, or too tired when evening comes to consider the frequent problems that may arise.

It may be claimed that fathers always assume an equal share with the mothers in the training of the children, but instances are known where fathers have been so busy amassing fortunes, or striving for material gains, that they have shirked or ignored responsibilities in this direction.

The power which parents have in laying the foundation of character in their children is unlimited, but they must give themselves faithfully to the task, not leaving it to others, or to schools, or outside agencies of any sort.

They must give their love, sympathy, personal influence and their companionship in the effort to understand each individual child. And the effort should be to guide the children so that their lives may not only be happy and helpful for themselves but for all whom they may ever meet.

* * *

In the home is found the strongest influence in character-building. No other element in education is equal to that which is gained by children, almost unconsciously, in the very earliest years from conscientious parents whose aim is to develop in each child a strong moral character, to teach him the virtues of truthfulness, justice, kindness, purity, self-control, self-respect, obedience, reverence, unselfishness.

Haphazard training, maxims and precepts will not do.

Parents cannot influence their children by claiming to be infallible, but by showing in their daily life that they are striving toward the best standards themselves. There may be difficulties, perplexities and even mistakes, but a deep joy in life will come when parents find in themselves the growth of those qualities they wish to develop in their children.

THE QUILTING BEE

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

DISTINCTLY I remember—it is all so plain to me—
The night some loving neighbors came to have a quilting bee.
The good old days have passed away; no neighbors come to call;
They used to help each other; now they do not speak at all.
Well I recall how they trooped in, fixed up the quilting frame,
And started with a vengeance at the world-old knocking game.

Though I was but a chubby child, I learned a lot that night;
I learned that Mrs. Johnson and her husband liked to fight.
I learned that Sally Jones, who played the organ at the church,
Had flirted with a drummer who had left her in the lurch.
I learned that Abner Morton spent his time at playing pool;
And heard that Sarah Truax had no right to teach a school.

They said that Mandy Pearson couldn't keep a steady beau,
Which was the reason why she hadn't married long ago.
The ladies were not partial while the big quilt grew in blocks,
For every absent neighbor got her honest share of knocks.
Though I was but a chubby child, it used to make me wilt,
To think how many loving thoughts make up a crazy quilt.

Rex Beach's New Novel "Heart of the Sunset"

A Texas Ranger laying in wait for a Mexican gunman. But instead, a woman, near crazed by thirst and desert heat, stumbles into his hiding place.

Written in Rex Beach's vigorous style, this great story rivals even the "Ne'er-Do-Well" and "The Spoilers."
